VOL. XXIV BELLEFONTE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING. MAY 18, 1893. NO 20

THE SUPREME COURT ON THE ARMOR WILL CASE.

The Armor will case has attracted much attention in Bellefonte and Centre county. This is a contest between D. M. Butts, the Executor of the will, against the majority of the heirs. In 1890 Mrs. Ruth D. Armor, an aged lady 93 years old, made a will in which she left her estate in trust to D M Butts for all the heirs except her daughter Eliza, who was the wife of D M Butts, to whome she lefta share to be hers absolutely. The other heirs have no control of their property. The majority of the heirs were not satisfied and brought suit to break the will. The orphan's court of Centre county consented to let the case go to the jury on evidence to show that the aged testator was not competent to make a will, but refused o admit testimony to show that undue influence was exerted by D M Butts. The attorney's for the contestants, Orvis, Bower & Orvis, appealed to the Supreme Court on this question to compel the court below to admit this testimony. Below we give the decision of the supreme court rendered for this court by Judge Dean. It is in favor of the contestant:

Estate of Ruth B Armor, deceased. Appeal of Monroe Armor and others, from decree of Orphans' Court of Centre county. Argued 19th of April, 1893. Filed May 8th, 1893. Opinion by Dean.

On the 10th of November, 1891, Ruth B Armor died in the ninety-third year of her age. She left surviving her five children, Monroe Armor, Eliza G., intermarried with David M Butts, Eudotian Anastasia, and Amanda, the last married to Samuel B. Miller.

At her death Mrs. Armor possessed an estate in lands and personalty to the value, probably, of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000). After the death of her husband in 1877, her son-in-law, D. M. Butts, managed her estate under powers of attorney from her. The evidence shows, as well as his own statement, that his control of her affairs was dominant and practically exclusive of the owner and the other members of the family. This may have been altogether proper, and for the best interests of the estate. But in this condition of affairs, this aged woman, on the 20th of February, 1890, made her last will and testament which is now contested by all the children except Mr. Butts. It is alleged that at the date of making the will she was: 1, Of unsound mind; 2, That the will was procured by undue influence on the part of David M Butts.

To move the Court to grant or refuse an issue, much testimony was taken bearing on the mental condition of testatrix, and as to the influence excerised over her at the time by her son in-law, David M Butts. While we have read and considered this testimony, the impropriety of any discussion of its weight or significance at this time is so obvious that we shall not advert to it except in so far as may be necessary to indicate the reasons for our decree.

There was extreme old age, and the ordinary infirmities, physicial and mental, incident to it, which of themselves do not constitute testamentary incapacity. But the contestants went further, and offered some evidence, particularly that of her family physician, tending to show imbecility. The learned Judge of the Orphans' Court was of the opinion there was sufficient to send the case to a jury on this question, and as to whether there was testamentary capacity he directed that an issue be framed for trial.

We assume this was right; the appellants asked for it, the appellee complains not of error. But, taking this to be a good decree so far as it goes, we do not see how the learned Judge refused the issue as to undue influence on this evidence. The evidence tending to show mental incapacity is so blended with that offered to show the will was procured by the son-in-law, that it is impossible to separate the conclusions. Let us illustrate our meaning. The Court finds there is evidence on the question of testamentary capacity for the consideration of a jury; what evidence? That the testatrix surrendered this entire control of her estate for years before her death to David M Butts; exacting from him no accounting; was incapable of comprehending the accounts if he had presented them. Whatever he directed, she performed or omitted; he said for some time she should not make a will, and none was made; he changed his mind and directed her to make one, and to have it drawn by a lawyer, and she obeyed.

He admitted that he advised her to charge her son Monroe with what he owed the estate, and says he wanted this done that his wife might have equal advantage with the son. This theory of the contestants is sought to be established all through their testimony; the extinction of all individuality of thought and action on part of testatrix, and the usurpation of her place as the owner and controller of her property by the son-in-law, and then a will made of it, not by her but by him. The absence of testamentary capacity is sought to be shown mainly by testimony that she yielded wholly to his will for years before her death; that he was not simply her agent, but her guardian or governor, as if she were imbecile.

The testatrix appoints him executor, and although all the children were of full age he is also appointed trustee for all except his wife, whose share is given to her absolutely. Having had the control of the estate for thirteen years during the lifetime of the owner, substantially by the will this control is continued for the lifetime of the children.

In directing the issue as to testamentary capacity, doubtless the Courts noticed this testimony of the son-in-law:

Q. Did you say anything to her about charging Monroe with what he owed the estate at any time you talked with her? A. Not when I talked about the will. I told her if Monroe didn't return what he owed the estate I would charge him with it.

Q. Did you ever say anything to her about arranging matters so that Mr. Miller would be cut out? A. I did to Miss Eudotia Armor.

Q. Now, Mr. Butts, was not that the reason you changed your mind in reference to her making a will? A. Well, that was one reason.

Q. Before that you were not in favor of her making a will? A. Well I didn't say I was opposed to it; I said I wasn't in favor of it; that circumstances alter cases———.

Q. In speaking about this matter, state whether or not you told Mrs. Armor you had a right to make this will? A. Oh, I may have said it; I think I had a right to make her will. I think McManus told me at one time I had a right to advise her to do anything that was right.

The result of not making a will was to leave the estate to descend under the intestate laws. The effect of this will is to put the legal title of a large portion of it in Mr. Butts hands during the life of the benficiaries. Such a difference in consequences to both the children and the trustees is certainly a very grave one. It is urged, that whether the estate should go as the law directed or as Mr. Butts directed, depended altogether on how "circumstances" in his opinion altered cases.

As to what right Mr. Butts assumed he had, in directing the disposition of the property, we quote again from his testimony.

Q. You were a little excited when Mr. Bower asked you one question as to whether you had a right to make this will now if you said that, state whether you meant you had a right to advise her? A. Well, I think I had a right to advise her of making a will, but I didn't want to write it. She suggested that I should write it, but I said that I didn't want to do that; she should go to a lawyer.

Q. If there was anything of that kind said, did you mean that you had a right to indicate to her what disposition she should make of her property? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever think that the power of attorney gave you the power to indicate the disposition of her property? A. Yes, sir.

It is urged that the assumption by Butts of control over the mind and property of his aged and infirm mother-in-law, her childish submission to the usurpation, is evidence both of testamentary incapacity and undue influence, and the conclusion drawn from the evidence necessarily points with as much probability to the one as to the other. We think this argument convincing; the case comes within the rule in Wilson's Appeal. 99 Pa. 545, where an aged testator made a will largely in favor of his confidential adviser. There was conflicting evidence of mental capacity. The Orphans' Court refused an issue to determine whether testator was of sound mind, but awarded it on the question of undue influence. In an opinion by Justice Green reversing the Court below, we held that in such case both charges were necessarily so interwoven and connected with each other that the inquiry should extend to both.

Besides, as we held in Wilson V. Mitchell, 101, Pa., 545, where the testator, although possessed of testamentary capacity, yet is aged, infirm bodily, with mental faculties impaired, if his confidential adviser be largely a beneficiary under the will, there is a presnmption of fact that undue influence was brought to bear on the mind of the testator, and the burden is on the beneficiary to rebut this presumption.

It is therefore ordered that in so far as the decree of the Court below refused to award an issue to determine whether the alleged will of Ruth B. Armor was procured by undue influence of David M. Butts, be reversed, and it is directed that the Court below award such issue, the costs of this appeal to be paid by the appelles.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, May 8, 1893.

The administration program is at last completed, at least that is what those who usually speak for the President say. It consists of only four heads, and whatever else it may be is certainly thoroughly democratic. Here they are: first, the repeal of the federal election laws, so as to keep the South solid in both Congressional and Presidential elections; second, the levying of an income tax, to replace the money that will be lost by lowering the tariff on foreign manufacturers; third, the repeal of the Sherman silver law and of the tax on state bank currency; fourth, a complete revision of the tariff, lowering the duties materially on everything. This program is the result of Mr. Cleveland's deliberation and he says that he has no fear of the refusal of Congress to adopt any part of it except the tariff bill; he fears that the demand for protection for home manufacturers may be so strong that democratic senators and Representatives from manufacturing states will not support that.

Others, however, think that he has been led into being over-sanguine by the talk of Senators and Members intent upon pleasing him so that they might pick up some crumbs of patronage. It is very certain that an income tax cannot be gotten through Congress without the hardest sort of a fight, although if it be endorsed by the democratic Senate and House caucus it will in the end, of course, be passed. It is not believed that a bill for the repeal of the Sherman silver law can possibly be passed without republican votes in both House and Senate, because that is the one question upon which quite a number of democratic Senators and Representatives will not be bound by caucus; it was tried at the last session of Congress; and it is absolutely certain that not a single republican in either House or Senate will vote for the bill if it be yoked to the repeal of the tax on state bank currency, as at present proposed; they believe too strongly in honest money to support a bill that if enacted into a law would give the country an era of wild-cat money. As to the repeal of the federal election law, unless the next House adopts much more stringent rules against fili-bustering than the last one did, the republicans will defeat the attempt by filibustering. All of which makes it plain that it is much easier to arrange a program for Congress to follow than it will be to make Congress follow it.

At last the secret is out as to why Commissioner Raum was asked for his resignation weeks before his successor was selected. As long as he remained at the head of the Bureau applications for pension were granted just as rapidly as they had been since the new law went into effect, nearly three years ago. One of the first things agreed upon by the new democratic cabinet was that the number of original pensions granted should be largely cut down, and they have been from the day that Gen. Raum left the bureau, the decrease being about seventy per cent. And the present understanding in the bureau is that the average of original pensions granted must be more than one-third of what it was under Gen. Raum. That is one kind of pension reform, but it will hardly be popular with needy applicants.

Secretary Carlisle is the most popular member of the adminiscration with the rank and file of the democratic party, because he defies the mugwump alleged civil service reformers and openly gives as his excuse for asking for the resignation of republican employes that he wants their places for democrats.

One republican has resigned that Secretary Carlisle would have been glad to have retained as a member of his staff, but a flattering offer was made to Mr. Edward O. Leech, by the wealthy gentlemen, among them ex-Secretary Whitney, who are to open the National Union bank in New York city on June 1, and he has resigned the position of Director of the mint to become cashier of the new bank. Mr. Leech, although comparatively a young man, has devoted years to the study of finance, upon which he is justly regarded as high authority.

There is a long story behind the refusal of ex-Secretary Fairchild to serve as a member of the committee appointed by Sec. Carlisle to investigate the New York custom house and make a report that will furnish an excuse for the removal of republican employes. It is known that Mr. Fairchild was disappointed because he was not given a place in the cabinet, and, according to a close friend of his at present in Washington, he feels that insult has been added to neglect by appointing him a member of this partisan smelling committee, the sneaking work of which he considers beneath his dignity and high standing.

Bellefonte's Businesses.

BRIEF SKETCHES OF OUR LEADING ESTABLISHMENTS.

WRITTEN UP FOR "REPUBLICAN" READERS.

A PROSPEROUS TOWN AND AN ENTERPRISING CLASS OF BUSINESS MEN.

Below is given in compact form, brief and pithy sketches of Bellefonte's prominent business. "Advertising is the life of trade," and if you will read this list you can see what to buy and where to buy it, as the following long roll is a complete one. We cheerfully recommend to the purchasing public all whose names appear in the following columns. Read them all.

In the succeeding columns the aim has been to present in brief formia description of the advanced business facilities of our town and sketches of our leading mercantile establishments. That Bellefonte possesses many real and prominent advantages which being utilized and developed by business men of experience and ability has long since placed it in the front rank among the towns of Central Pennsylvania, is a fact so well known as to need no comment here. The writing up and representation of such a large number of our business establishments cannot fail to be of substantial benefit to the town and makes an excellent showing of the enterprise of our merchants, which has done much in drawing from the surrounding country an immense volume of local trade. Though the town has had drawbacks in the past indications point to a renewal of business actively and with the increased railway facilities which are sure to come important industries are sure to follow. As a place of residence or business the town has many desirable features. It has the advantages of first class schools while the number and character of the church edifices indicates the religious zeal of the people. We ask of our readers a careful perusal of the following sketches.

M. FAUBLE.

In this article we propose to give a brief sketch of the large and splendidly equipped establishment of the enterprising gentleman above named and a few points as to the superior facilities for meeting the wants of the public and the advantages to be had in dealing here. It is a large and commodious double store admirably arranged for the display of goods and the convenience of the publicandin every respect one of the leading clothing, hat, cap, and furnishings establishments in this section of the state. Mr. Fauble has been established here about 10 years. He is an enterprising business man and a competent, practical clothier. His establishment has a high standing with the public thoroughly enjoying the confidence and popularity of the people. The success of the business is largely due to Mr. Fauble's competent trying. Able to buy right and purchase his stock from the leading manufacturers he gets great advantages. This establishment is noted for the exceptionally of the stock carried. It was never better prepared to meet the wants of the public than it is for this season's trade and those who neglect to inspect the large and first class stock of clothing, hats & caps and gents' furnishings now at hand will be doing themselves an injustice.

BROCKERHOFF HOUSE.

In reviewing the business establishments of our town we wish to make prominent mention of the important improvements taking place in this large and commodious public hostelry under its new management. Mr. J. N. Neubauer, late of Greensburg, recently took charge of this house and he is making a success of it. He is making a new house of it, so extensive are the improvements which it is undergoing. The house is being wholly remodelled and refitted and when completed it will be one of the best equipped hotels in this section of the State. The accommodations will be first-class, having all modern improvements and conveniences. Mr. Neubauer is a competent, experienced hotelman and we bespeak for him a large share of the hotel trade of the town.

T. CLAYTON BROWN & CO.

This large and splendidly equipped establishment should occupy a prominent place in our review of the town. The store is one of the best appointed and most attractive among our business establishments and is conducted in a capable, enterprising manner. The advantages it offers to the people has won for the business a deserved popularity and a large increasing trade. Messrs. Brown established here about six years ago and have met with phenomenal succes. The store has a large and superior stock of all the latest and best makes of boots and shoes, in addition to which a permanent feature of the store is the great variety of novelty goods, house furnishings etc. Messrs. Brown & Co. are capable buyers and purchase their stock from the best markets and at this store the public find advantages in dealing.

THOMPSON & CO.

In referring to the drug establishments of the town we wish to make prominent mention of the popular and successful establishment herein described. It is now about two years since Dr. Thompson established here He has been successful and has built up a splendid patronage and has raised the store to a high standard of excellence. The public find in dealing here every possible advantage. The store is well stocked with a full line of pure drugs of all kinds; druggists sundries, the leading patent medicines. Special attention is given to the dispensing department, prescriptions being promptly and accurately compounded.

C. M. PARRISH.

A popular and successful drug establishment where the public find every possible advantage in dealing is at the first class drug institution of the above named gentleman. It is 4 years since Mr. Parrish established here, having at that time bought out W. W. Bayard. Under his management the business has gone ahead steadily increasing its trade and growing in the confidence and appreciation of the people. Mr. Parrish is a competent chemist and druggist and keeps the store to a high standard of excellence. A large and well selected stock is carried including all kinds of pure drugs, medicines, toilet articles, fancy goods. Mr. Parrish gives special attention to compounding prescriptions, all orders being promptly and accurately filled.

ED. C. ROWE.

An establishment which should occupy a prominent place in our review of the business interests of the town is the large flourishing and well equipped furniture, carpet, wall paper and general house-furnishing emporium of the enterprising gentleman above named. Mr. Rowe has been established here about five years. The success he has met with has been most gratifying. He has built up an extensive trade and made his store known as the best place to buy anything in this line in the county. The establishment is up with the times and conducted in a capable, enterprising manner. Mr. Rowe purchases his stock to an advantage from the best manufacturers and a visit to his warerooms and an inspection of the stock will show that the taste and means of every purchaser can be suited. The stock embraces all kinds of household furniture from the finest class to the common makes, a large and varied line of carpets, lace curtains, pictures, frames, mouldings, etc. The trade extends all over this section of the State. The business is devotedly popular with the people.

F. P. BLAIR & CO.

One of the establishments of our town which is rated for the high standard of excellence to which it is maintained is the large and magnificently equipped jewelry store of the substantial and enterprising F. P. Blair and Thos. Moore. Mr. Blair has been carrying on business here for over a quarter of a century. He has always done a large and satisfactory trade. The public finds great advantages in dealing here. Mr. Blair is a competent buyer and purchases his stock from the leading manufacturers and importers, and the handsome wall and counter cases of his neatly appointed store are with pure gold and silver watches, clocks of great variety, and jewelry of all descriptions, diamonds, spectacles, silverware, etc. Special attention is given to the optical, department having on hand a full line of all the latest appliances for testing and fitting glasses to any defective vision. The establishment has a large patronage.

COOKE'S BON MARCHE.

One of the most successful and popular of our mercantile establishments is the flourishing house above named which should occupy a prominent place in our review. During the comparatively short time this business has been before the public it has met with phenomenal success and the large and growing patronage it has built up reflects credit upon its capable, enterprising management. The store is magnificently equipped and is noted for the superiority of the stock carried, the newest, latest and best goods are found here as soon as they appear on the wholesale market. Mr. Cooke is a competent buyer and has made this a prominent feature of the store. The store is devoted to all kinds of fancy and staple dry goods, notions, trimmings, hosiery, etc. The business deserves its success.

LOUIS DOLL

In referring to the boot and shoe trade of our town we wish to call the special attention of our readers to the recently established business of Mr. Doll on Bishop street. Although established only a few months he has built up a satisfactorily increasing trade and his business is so steadgrowing in the confidence of the people for its capable management. We would advise our readers to give this store a call. The public should note that the stock is all new and first-class, bought from the best manufacturers and includes all the latest and best makes, from the ladies' finest French kid to the mens' and boys' heavier wear. Mr. Doll's expenses are light and his prices the lowest. It will save money to inspect his stock. Special attention is gived to repairing, which is done in the best manner. The business is going ahead.

GERBERICH, HALE & CO

Among other things our town is noted for is its flour mills. In this article the subject of our sketch will be the large, commodious and first-class mill of the above named firm. This easily ranks as one of the best equipped and best conducted flouring mills in this section of the State. It is a comparatively new mill, rebuilt about a year ago and is a large, substantial structure, equipped from top to bottom with a complete set of machinery of the improved Full Roller process and is noted for turning out a very superior quality of flour which finds a ready sale. The highest cash price is paid for wheat and a large commercial business is done, flour being shipped to all parts of the country. Special attention is given to custom work, farmers coming here for miles around to have their milling done. Mr. Gerberich, under whose efficient management the mill is conducted, is a competent, experienced merchant miller.

W. T. MEYER.

A few words in our review of the establishments of the town, in reference to the splendidly stocked fancy goods of the enterprising gentleman above named and the advantages to be had in dealing here will be of interest and profit to our readers. Mr. Meyer has been successfully carrying on this business about 5 years. Each year he has carried the business forward, increasing its trade and growing in the confidence and appreciation of the people. The business is conducted strictly on the cash basis and the public find every advantage in dealing here. Mr. Meyer is competent and experienced in buying and he always has the store crowded with bargains and the newest, latest and best grades on hand as soon as they appear on the wholesale market. The store is neatly appointed and splendidly equipped, embracing all kinds of notions, fancy goods, ladies furnishings, etc. It saves money to deal here.

J. A. HILL.

The Singer Manufacturing company is fortunate in having for their representative here a gentleman of the energy and ability of Mr. J. A. Hill in whose hands the interest of the company as well as the public is well looked after. Mr. Hill has been established here only a comparatively short time but he has placed a great many of those world famous machines in Centre county homes. At his office on Thomas street is always on hand a full stock of the leading makes of machines, besides all kinds of attachments and supplies pertaining thereto. Mr. Hill makes a specialty of repairing machines.

L. McQUISTION.

Next we come to the popular fruit, confectionery and cigar store successfully carried on by Mr. L. McQuistion. It is now about 2 years since he established here. The success he has met has been very gratifying. He has built up a splendid trade ond made the business popular with the people. The store is conducted in a capable, enterprising manner and the public have every advantage in dealing here. Always on hand is a large and choice stock of foreign and domestic fruits in season, nuts, confectionery, cigars, etc. The business deserves its success.

J. C. WEAVER.

There is nothing of greater importance to a business community than safe, reliable Insurance. In this respect our town possesses the advantages of one of the best Insurance agencies in this section of the state successfully carried on by the enterprising gentleman above named. Mr. Weaver has had extensive experience in the Insurance business and is in the best position to place Insurance in the most re-

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Styles Of Making: Travelling Dresses: Silk Waists: Shoes: Gloves: Trimmings.

Ruffles are carried to such an extreme on wool costumes, that cotton dresses are usually very simply made; insertion, white braid, lace and ribbon, or embroidered edging, so far fulfilling all requirments as to trimmings. A blue and white striped gingham, made with one deep flounce, reaching above the knee, (merely the increased width of the skirt) headed by two rows of narrow white braid with three at the bottom, and Eton jacket trimmed with similar braid; serves to illustrate a popular style of making ordinary cotton goods. A dark blue percale with white dots, has a perfectly plain skirt; seams in white and Eton jacket with light-blue satin revers and white China silk blouse. It should not be inferred however that no ruffles are seen on cotton fabrics, as white or colored dotted Swiss muslins may have a muslin ruffle or several of lace; when lined throughout with silk and trimmed with lace and ribbon costumes. Duck silks are again fashionable, pearl buttons on the vest being the only trimming, with perhaps the addition of one or two rows of braid.

TRAVELLING DRESSES.

assure this year an unusual importance, and serges, small checks or Cheviot challies are most in demand, made with plain skirts, short jackets with silk blouse and belt. A full shirring is a newer blouse front than a wide, plaited frill, the latter however is still fashionable. Plaided, striped, dotted or plain silk are all appropriate for this purpose, great liberty existing as regards color. Challi dresses admit of very elaborate trimmings of colored silk ruffles, lace and ribbon, when however the material shows a conspicuous figure, skirts are often entirely plain, or large knots of four-inch wide ribbon are regularly spaced around the front and sides.

SILK WAISTS

are more varied than ever and in addition to a generel revival of last season's styles, surplice fronts carried under the arm to form a belt fastened at the back, is the latest idea. Plain and changeable silks in brilliant hues are somewhat toned down by white or black lace brotelles, and wide lace is often draped over a full sleeve; that of the bretelle forming a second row. Quite a change is noticeable in belts, and while pointed ones are still in favor, "wrinkled" belts both wide and narrow are most stylish, ordinarily of some material used in trimming the costume.

VERY LARGE BUTTONS

are seen on new fox patent boots with cloth or kid tops for ladies wear, and patent leather slippers with Rhine stone buckles remain very fashionable. Tan, gray, or black Oxford ties are so much cooler for summer wear than high boots, that this fact ensures their popularity; and as handsome shoes are one of the first essentials of good dressing, the next best thing is to make the partly-worn look like new, and this is readily accomplished by using the ever popular renovator, Raven Gloss for ordinary purposes, but for renewing the brilliancy of dull patent, calfskin or enameled leather, nothing is so efficacious as Patentene or the Club Polish for new patent leather. Tan or russet shoes are among the season's leading styles, and when somewhat rubbed are no longer thrown away, as Tanshine removes all soil from whatever cause, rendering them soft and fresh. White Clover powder sifted into the stocking prevents undue perspiration and affords comfort for those with tender feet.

GREEN AND PURPLE.

are leading colors in fashionable gloves, but when the glove does not match the costume, it should be in contrast. Large buttons are still worn and heavy black stitching is again in favor. Jet or colored passementerie, white or black lace, satin or velvet are in extreme favor as trimmings, and lace bretelles confined at the waist under a belt, and caught on the shoulder by satin ribbon bows, are worn over any plain waist with excellent effect.

VERONA CLARKE.

PURE WHISKEY.

is extremely difficult to obtain. In this age of adulteration and imitation the only way to be guided in the purchase of any article where absolute purity is necessary is to buy from a house whose reputation for handling the best goods, at the least money has been firmly established. Such a house is that of Max Klein, of Allegheny, Pa. His Silver Age and Duquesne Rye Whiskies, at $1.50 and $1.25 respectively, are recognized as the leading Ryes on the market. For a $5.00 bill he will send you six quarts of any of the following six-year-old Penn'a Ryes; Guckehenimer, Gibson, Finch, Overholt and Bear Creek. Send for his catalogue and price list. SORRY SHE SPOKE.

"Take one!"

It was only a little sign, but it meant much. It stood in front of the desk of the cashier of a prominent restaurant, but it was a little out of his range of vision, being on a ledge of the marble stand.

Everybody who went out took one No further invitation was necessary, and the way those maple sugar cakes disappeared had no parallel in history.

The cashier did not notice how profits were flying. The retail value of the cake was ten cents each. But nobody was going to pay that price so long as the sign begged the customers to take one and say no more about it.

The restaurant is one in which the minimum cost of a luncheon is ten cents. Hence, the customer upon paying that amount for what he had eaten had a rebate of the entire amount in maple sugar. Then also, friends who came in to wait for other friends who came to eat, also helped themselves. They all naturally thought it a very pleasing advertising scheme.

So it might have gone on till the end of the box—and, in fact, it nearly did—had not a gushing girl exclaimed as she helped herself:

"How very kind of the proprietor to furnish his patrons maple sugar."

"What's that?" fairly shrieked the cashier as he raised himself upon his stool and looked over the front edge of his desk.

The sight that met his eyes made him dismount hurriedly and rush around to the front. There he saw the depleted box with the sign triumphantly stuck therein, while in the toothpick-box was the legend "Price, ten cents each."

"Holy Smoke, I was beginning to think it was funny that nobody was buying maple sugar," he said as he transposed the signs.

"Then you are not giving away maple sugar after all," said the young lady disappointedly.

"Only for ten cents apiece," replied the cashier, "and if I raised the price to a quarter I couldn't begin to make up the deficit."

"How mean," said the young lady. "I'm sorry I spoke. Everybody else who has gone out for twenty minutes has taken one, as I have watched. I shall never come here again and I will warn all my friends against you."

As she flounced out the cashier muttered something about a desire to catch the man who changed the signs.—N. Y. Journal.

A RUSSIAN WEDDING.

The Bride Was Not Happy, but Apparently Awed and Submissive.

I scrutinized the features and the bearing of the bride and bridegroom with eager curiosity, owing to what I had heard of them from my loquacious friend during our confablation in the kaback. The lady might have been a statue, so stiff and lifeless she looked as she stood there—dressed in white muslin, a long veil reaching down to her insteps, and a wreath of artificial orange blossoms crowning her head. She was a tall, lithe, comely lass of twenty, with a broad forehead, large blue eyes, a somewhat wandering, far-away look, and slow, tentative movements.

Her husband was a thick set, muscular man of thirty-five or thereabouts, whose russet hair, red beard, firey eyes, and furtive cunning glance combined to render him an undesirable companion for anyone. He occasionally made remarks to his bride in inaudible whispers, and the look which on one of these occasions accompanied his remark seemed to me to reveal something indescribably antipathetic in the man's character, so that I could readily understand the girl's reluctance to throw in her lot with his.

It appears that a previous affection or natural instinct inspired her with an aversion for the husband selected by her father, which neither coaxing nor threats enabled her to overcome, and she never would have become his wedded wife, had it not been for the express and peremptory commands of the local authorities won over by her ambitious father.

The hut consisted of two dark, smoke-rooms, the larger of which was fitted up as dining and ball room for the occasion. A long deal table in the middle was covered with huge disks of coarse rye bread, as sour as if vinegar had been employed instead of water, for in Russia all black bread is bitterness; masses of gray studen or jelly made of cow's feet filled with almost all kinds of meats including fish, game, etc.; junks of corned beef, smoked fish, platters of sausages and black puddings, meat pastries, sweet cakes and apples: the whole agreeably diversified with bottles of waterly beer, jars of firely vodka, long-necked decanters of red-colored sweet liquor made of alcohol, sugar, and the juices of currants, cherries, huckleberries and raspberries.

The TeDeum over, congratulations and good wishes were freely expressed, and that hay might be made while the sun still shone, a white plate, with a little triangle chipped off the edge, was placed on a table on which guests and strangers were privileged or expected to deposit their money offering for the bride. I put a five-rouble note on the plate and saluted the bride, according to custom, with a kiss such as are as common as hard-boiled eggs at Eastertide among orthodox Christians in Russia, and then we sat down to dinner. —London Telegraph.

I have been troubled with chronic catarrh for years. Ely's Cream Balm is the only remedy among the many that I have used that affords me relief.—E. H. Willard, Druggist, Joliet, Ills.

I have been troubled with catarrh for ten years and have tried a number of remedies, but found no relief until I purchased a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. I consider it the most reliable preparation for catarrh and cold in the head.—Geo. E. Crandall, P. M., Quonochawntang, R. I.

CHOLERA—A PREVENTATIVE.

It is thought by many prominent and learned doctors that this country is very likely to be visited by the cholera this summer. In view of this danger health committees and official health officers all over the county are urging the people to prepare for the worst and to take every precautionary measure to mitigate, if not entirely prevent, the scourge. It is said that where entire and perfect cleanliness of the person and surroundings prevail, cholera cannot come. If this is a fact, it then only remains with the people really to say whether they will have such a danger, and death or not. Often these dangers are brought upon a town or city by a class of people who are so poor and live in such crowded and inconvienient quarters that it is almost impossible for proper sanitary conditions and environments to exist; and here the danger starts, and from there travels to the homes of the rich and the palace of the prince, and so all are taught by this unerring law of God that all his children are dependent in a great measure upon each other, and that where one class suffer then all classes are in danger And we might say further, that in this we see how God punishes us all for the crime of allowing such poverty to exist. The reform of the future must be one that will look to the extinguishment of this danger which comes up from the hovels of the abjectly poor, a danger that can only be averted by the abolition of poverty. Abolish poverty; we hear you say, how in the world can you bring that about? To answer such a question fully would take a longer article than we have the space this week to print or the time to write; but in brief we might say, by giving to all the children of men equality of opportunity by obeying carefully and honestly the law of God and recognizing in its true sense the brotherhood of man, we shall be lead to accord rights to all, that shall elevate and improve all. Then will the scourges that have affected the children of men in the past be forgotten, because they will cease to exist.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

THE DAVIS!

THE DAVIS!

What is The Davis? The best Sewing Machine on earth.

It is the only vertical feed sewing machine ever made.

It sews through thick and thin, without any change of feed; which is the only feed, which will move one thickness or a dozen thicknesses of the same goods and sew the same without making any change.

It has all the attachments. It is light running. It is very durable and we guarantee it to be a long lived machine.

It is a beautiful piece of furniture and an ornament in any household.

Reader, if you want to make your wife happy, present her with a Davis Sewing Machine.

Young man, if you want to make a present to your sister or to some other young man's sister, a Davis Sewing Machine will make your attachment doubly strong and make you twice as happy.

We challenge any other sewing machines to meet the Davis in a contest, as to the real merits of each, and will be glad to make a public exhibition in practical and fancy sewing. If three or more machines will accept this challenge, we will furnish the room free of charge, including light and heat for that purpose.

We invite all persons interested in the best Sewing machines to call at our store and examine the Davis; when we will take great pleasure in exhibiting the machine and explaining its merits.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

NEW YORK, May 13, 1893.

Following the crisis in the "industrials," the past week has developed a series of after-effects, which have demoralized the general market and produced extensive realizing on "long" stocks and a general instability of prices.

Among those secondary results, the following may be enumerated as the principal;—(1.) A general weakening of margins among speculative holders; (2.) A more or less demand among brokers for an increase of margins beyond the ordinary limit; (3.) The disinclination of many brokers to take new accounts until the situation becomes more settled; (4.) the closing up of accounts where operators are unable to keep up their margins; (5.) The indisposition of money lenders to renew expiring time loans or to contract new ones; (6.) The natural disposition of large and strong holders to dispose of some of their stock in hope of getting it back at lower prices upon a declining market; (7.) The weakening of some brokers and the desire of others to keep their customers' operations upon a conservative scale; (8.) The frightening of cautious operators out of the market; And (9.) the disposition of judicious operators to realize on the moderate rallies.

Each one of these after-effects has tended to induce the extensive selling of the past week; to which has been added the sensational effect arising from failures and rumors of failures of firms and banks, and a comparative cessation of the London demand for our securities, besides the discouraging result of another great bank failure in Australia. Under these circumstances, the unsettled feeling that has followed the crash in the "industrials" is no matter of surprise. Cool heads have anticipated it, and wise men have held themselves prepared for it; and hence the weakness of the market has produced neither alarm nor despondency. Among the conservative and well-protected class who always constitute the back-bone of the market, the present phase is accepted as one of liquidation, with all that goes with it. No further serious effects are expected from it; nor is it supposed that the existing effects will immediately disappear. The state upon which the market has now entered is one of caution, conversation, restricted means and diminished numbers in the rank of operators; and that means, for some time to come, a contraction of speculative transactions. Although it seems safe to conclude that the worst of this second phase of the crisis has been experienced, yet it would be a mistake to conclude that it will be at once succeeded by any buoyant recovery. Time must be allowed for repair of the shock to confidence, for readjustments, for the influx of new capital, and for the appearing of new conditions as a fresh basis of confidence.

It is to the latter factor that attention will be next turned. There are new conditions looming up that may reasonably be expected to produce a better feeling. Our disturbed financial relations with other countries have manifestly passed their worst phase. The imports show a declining tendency, which is likely to be still more marked at a later stage. The exports, though still relatively light, are likely to be soon augmented through the crop damage in Europe causing a foreign demand for our large surplus of wheat. These changes may be expected to materially reduce our liability to export gold for the next few weeks. The subsidence of the gold alarms, which have caused the interior banks to withdraw large amounts of deposits from this city, will have the effect of causing those banks to return the funds; which will ease the stringency in discounts and make money more available for Stock Exchange uses. With greater steadiness in these financial conditions, we may hope that English investors will begin to show a preference for American securities over the Colonial issues from which they are now so severely suffering Meantime, in spite of the quiet of business, the earnings of the railroads show very liberal gains. In connection with the future of the industrials, it is to be considered that the break down in their stocks has been due entirely to the wild speculative inflation of their market price, and not at all to the condition of their business and earnings, which is generally good.

These are considerations which will, in due time, have their assuring effect upon the market. But, for the present, the only safe policy is one of caution. It cannot yet be positively assumed that all weak spots in the market have been eliminated: and until all doubt on that point is received, the true policy of holders is to strengthen their ability to keep what they have rather than to materially increase their load.

HENRY CLEWS.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

THE BIG SHOW.

Atchison People Say It Is Better Than Barnum's.

Walter L. Main's big show was in town to-day. The big tents were put up yesterday on Market Square, and in the afternoon Mr. Main tendered the use of the circus pavilion to the Y. M. C. A., and at 5 o'clock that organization held a rousing meeting, led by Mr. C. W. Postlethwaite. A special male quartet furnished the music. This generous action on the part of Mr. Main solidified the show with the church people.

At 10 o'clock this morning the parade took place. It was viewed by thousands of sight seers. and pleased every body. The finest horses ever seen in Atchison were in the parade.

The first performance took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and was largely attended. Atchisonians who saw the Barnum attraction in Leavenworth the other day say the circus was not as good as that given by the Main people this afternoon The big tent will be packed to-night.

Everybody around Walter L. Main's show savors of decency and cleanliness. A Patriot reporter watched the men put up the tents yesterday, and noticed that there was no profanity indulged in. There was no gambling on the grounds. The people give every evidence of being pleased with Walter L. Main's big show.—Atchison Daily Patriot, Kansas. Will exhibit in Bellefonte on Saturday, May 27th.

ABOUT BATHING.

There are plenty of people who consider regular ablutions essential to cleanliness who do not understand how much these have to do with good looks. The beauty of the skin cannot be preserved unless its pores are kept well open. Proof of this is seen by observation among people who bath infrequently and insufficiently. A good complexion is almost unknown among them, and although improper food and impure air do their share in muddying and thickening the skin, its unhealthy appearance is largely due to the clogging of the pores which prevents their carrying off as they should the waste matter of the system.

A daily bath is not only a luxury, it is a necessity. A plunge bath is not within the compass of every one. But surely a sponge bath is. The temperature of the bath is a question upon which doctor and patient disagree. To some person there is nothing more bracing and invigorating than a cold plunge, while others do not recover for hours from the chill such a bath gives. Some physicians recommend a very hot bath, and assert that it is as stimulating in its after effects as is the cold plunge and less likely to produce ill effects. Nearly all unite in declaring immersion in the tepid bath relaxing, and thus detrimental to health. The question is one that each bather must settle for herself. What suits one may be positively harmful to another.

Certain it is that the hot or warm bath is more cleaning than cold water. The sudden chill of the latter closes the pores and prevents the escape of the effete matter it is the object of the bath to remove. The woman who takes a cold sponge for its after-effects should first sponge herself off in the warm water and achieve cleanliness before she indulges herself in her "bracer." Considering how charming is a beautiful complexion, and how dependent this is on perfect cleanliness, is it amazing that anybody of sense can overlook the benefits of the bath.

—Fire broke out in the second story of the rear addition to Mr. Adams' residence on North Centre street on Monday evening. The alarm was rung and both fire companies responded, and the fire was extinguished without much damage, except to the kitchen building, which was scorched and blackened considerably, but the main portion of the house was not damaged. The fire companies are entitled to great credit for the care they exercised in playing the water so as to not do useless damage.—Philipsburg Journal.

BIRDS OF PASSAGE.

Between this and the other side of the broad Atlantic, in the shape of tourists, commercial travelers and mariners, agents "on the road," steamboat captains, ship's surgeons and "all sorts and conditions" of travelers, emigrant and new settlers appreciate and testify to the preventative and remedial properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in sea sickness, nausea, malarial and rheumatic trouble, and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. Against the prejudicial influences of climate, crudely cooked or unaccustomed diet and impure water, it is a sovereign safeguard, and has been so regarded by the traveling public for over a third of a century. No form of malarial fever, from the calentura of the Pacific and the broken bone fever of the Mississippi, to its milder types, can resist the curative action of this bedignant preserver and restorer of health, a veritable boon to persons in feeble health or liable to incur disease.

—The second appearance of the Bellefonte minstrels is to be at Garman's opera house on Friday evening, May 26. They will give an entirely new performance. New jokes, songs, dances, etc. Their street parade in the afternoon will be headed by the Bellefonte band.

In Paint the best is the cheapest. Strictly Pure White Lead is best; properly applied it will not scale, chip, chalk, or rub off; it firmly adheres to the wood and forms a permanent base for repainting. Paints which peel or scale have to be removed by scraping or burning before satisfactory repainting can be done. When buying it is important to obtain properly made. Time has proven that white lead made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion possesses qualities that cannot be obtained by any other method of manufacture. This process consumes four to six months time, and produces the brands that have given White Lead its character as the standard paint.

"Armstrong & McKelvy"
"Beymer-Bauman" "Fahnestock"
"Davis-Chambers"

are standard brands of strictly pure Lead made by the "Old Dutch" process. You get the best in buying them. You can produce any desired color by tinting these brands of white lead with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

Bellefonte's Businesses.

liable companies at the smallest possible cost. He represents a large number of the leading American and foreign Fire and Life companies, some of them the strongest in existence.

J. W. RIGHTNOUR.

We are pleased to note in our review of the town the success attending the popular fruit and confectionery store carried on by the enterprising gentleman named above. Although established only a few months Mr. Rightnour has built up a splendid patronage which is steadily increasing. He is conducting the business in a capable enterprising manner and his success is assured. Always on hand is a choice stock of fruits, confectionery, nuts, cigars, etc.

J. W. MOORE,

It is now about two years since Mr. Moore established in the grocery business here. Under his management the store has gained a general popularity among its patrons who find every possible advantage in dealing here. The stock is always carefully selected and includes all kinds of pure family groceries, provisions, fruits, vegetables, etc. The store is neatly and cleanly kept and has an appreciative patronage.

S. LEWIN.

An establishment which occupies an important and influential position in the mentionable interests in our town is the large and splendidly equipped clothing and merchant tailoring establishment combined of the substantial gentleman above named. Mr. Lewin has been carrying on business here about 10 years. The phenominal success he has met is owing to his capable management and the advantages the public have always found in dealing here. Mr. Lewin purchases his stock from the best mearkets. He is a capable buyer and in dealing here one can always rely upon the quality of the goods. The merchant tailoring department is kept to a high standard of excellence the finest class of work being turned out. Those who neglect to inspect the excellent stock of clothing, hats & caps and gents furnishings on hand for this Seasons trade will be doing themselves an injustice.

MONTGOMERY & CO.

Our town can justly boast of one of the best clothing merchant and tailoring establishments in this section of the state. This popular business Messers. F. C. Montgomery & Co preprietors should occupy a prominent place in our review. It is one of the longest established of our mercantile institutions and is widely and favorably known throughout this and surrounding counties, an enterprising and substantial business for Messrs. Montgomery & Co keep the establishment to a high standard of excellence. They are capable experienced buyers and purchase their stock to an advantage and carry an extensive line of ready made clothing, all the leading lines and novelties of foreign and domestic leading cloths &c. The cutting is done by Mr W. W. Montgomery & Mr. John M. Bullock of their abilities it is unnecessary for us to speak as their work well shows for itself. Suffice it to say that the very finest class of merchant tailoring is turned out equal to what can be obtained in the large cities. Our town is often spoken of as a place noted for its well dressed people which is owing to the influence of this business in cultivating a taste for superior made clothing.

W. CULVEYHOUSE.

Among the newest established of our business places of such we wish to call special attention to, is that carried on by the gentleman above named. A short time ago Mr. Culveyhouse came to Bellefonte and started his pleasant business which is to be a general time of sporting goods, guns ammunition, fishing tackle, general household articles tinware &c. He has made a glad start and his business promises to lead up an extended patronage. Mr. Culveyhouse is experienced and competent in the line of repairing and does all kinds of machine and umbrella repairing &c. He is conducting the business in a capable, manner and deserves to succeed. a speciality being made in sewing machine repairing, clocks, lawnmowers, and repairing of any description.

MISS M. SNYDER.

A millinery establishment which is being appreciated by its patrons and the ladies generally for its capable management is the excellent store conducted by Miss Snyder. This is a first class millinery establishment where the ladies find the advantages in dealing. Miss Snyder is an accomplished experienced milliner and a capable buyer and the store is kept to a high standard of excellence, The stock is as good as the markets afford and includes all the most stylish and fashionable millinery, fancy goods, &c. The store has a large and appreciative patronaged.

FRANK GALBRAITH

In referring to the jewelry stores of the town we wish to make prominent mention in the popular and successful business of the gentleman above named. Mr. Galbraith has been carrying on business here about 10 years. He has been successful and has built up a large and satisfactory patronage and acquired for the business the confidence and appreciation of the people for its capable upright management. Mr. Galbraith is a thoroughly practical jeweler and understands any detail of the business. He is a campetent buyer and purchases his stock from the best markets and the public find every possible advantage in dealing at his store. He carries a first class stock embracing the best make of gold and silver watches clocks of great variety. Jewelry of all discriptions, Spectacles silverware &c, a first class workman special attention is given to all kinds of repair work which is done in the best manner.

R. LARIMER.

A short time ago the gentleman named bought out the grocery business carried on by Mr. Brown, on Allegheny St. We note the success which has attended the business under his management and his growing trade and increasing popularity is evidence of its merits. Mr. Larimer is an enterprising business man and a careful man and a competent, painstaking grocer. The public find every possible advantage in dealing here. Mr. Larimer purchases his stock from the best markets and the store is filled with a large and first class stock of all kinds of clean groceries, fruits, vegetables, etc. The business is going ahead.

B C ACHENBACH.

This is a neat attractive and well appointed establishment and the capable first class manner in which it is conducted is worthy of special mention here. Mr. Achenbach established about 5 years ago. He has built up a very satisfactory patronage and it would be difficult to find a better conducted bakery, confectionery and ice cream establishment than this. He thoroughly understands the business, the bakery is noted for turning out a superior quality of bread which is unsurpassed. On hand is always a choice stock of Cakes, sundries, confectionery, fruits &c Mr. Achenbach will this season give the same careful attention to the ice cream trade which has made his business so popular in the past. His parlors are neatly appointed and patrons are courteously treated. He always makes a specialty of supplying parties, entertainments &c.

GEO. T. BUSH.

In reviewing the business establishment of the town, we wish to make prominent mention of the popular and successful establishment owned by the enterprising gentleman above named. It is now about three years ago since Mr. Bush established here having at that time bought out Mr. Boal. He is an enterprising business man and the success he has met in building up a large and flourishing trade has been very gratifying as a first class books stationary and fancy good store for which he has acquired the confidence and popularity of the people for its capable, upright management. The public find every advantage in dealing here. The stock is well bought and carefully selected.

J. S. WAIT & CO.

Messrs. Wait & Co., carriage manufactures and dealers in all kinds of agricultural implements are conducting an establishment which is creditable to their enterprise. Their factory is commodious and affords every facility for the business and is equipped with the very latest machinery used in modern carriage factories. The works consist of two the larger one being 118x30 feet containing the office and show rooms with suitable blacksmithing, woodworking and paint rooms attached. The finest class of wheeled vehicles of all kinds are manufactured, and a large stock is now on hand for sale. The firm also manufacture pickets for wire fencing and deal in bicycles keeping on hand a full line of extras.

A. C. MINGLE.

In writing up the business establishments of our town there is too frequently a tendency toward exaggreation. There is no danger of this, however in a discription of the estabilshment here in referred to which is one of the largest, and best equipped boot and shoe stores in this section of the state. Ten years doing business with the public have accomplished results which show what energy and business ability rightly directed will secure. The people have learned from experience that the reliability of this business can always be depended upon and that to deal here means to secure the very best value in footware. Able to buy right, Mr. Mingle, purchases his stcok from the best manufacturers and whether it be in the fine class the best selection is offered.

CHAS. GLENN.

Next in our review in the business establishments of the town we would make prominent mention of the popular and successful photographic studio of the enterprising gentleman above named. Mr. Glenn has been established here a number of years. He has always had a large and satisfactory patronage and his studio is deservedly popular with the people for its capable management, enjoying the advantages of long practical experience, Mr. Glenn is a photographer of more than ordinary ability. He executes all classes of photographic work from a cabinet to the most elegant lifesized portrait, enlarging is also done in crayon, pastil etc. The studio is equipped with all the latest appleiances fine scinery etc. To see the display of photographic art here is to appreciate it.

J. MITCH CUNNINGHAM.

Next a word about the Palace cigar store, which every body appreciates and which has a liberal patronage. The popular proprietor, Mr. M. Cunningham has been carrying on this business four years. He has been successful and has built up a splendid trade. It is a well known fact that when a customer wants anything in the line of cigars, confectionery, fruits etc., this is the place to go. A choice stock is always on hand and the business is conducted in a capable, obilging and enterprising manner.

JOHN SOURBECK.

About four years ago the gentleman above named established in his present business in which he has been very successful and has built up a large and satisfactory trade. This store engages the confidence and popularity of the people and is conducted in a capable, enterprising manner. Mr. Sourbeck has always endeavored to handle the choicest and best stock that can be obtained including all kinds of foreign and domestic fruits confectionery, canned goods, provisions, cigars etc. The business deserves its success.

ED. BROWN.

In referring to the furniture establishment of the town we wish to make prominent mention of the popularity and successful business of the enterprising gentleman above named. It has been about three years ago since Mr. Brown established here. He has been very successful and has built up a large and satisfactory trade and acquired for his business the confidence and popularity of the people for its capable, enterprising management. The public find in dealing here every advantage which competent management can secure. Mr. Brown purchases his stock from the best manufactures and his large and well equipped store is filled with a first class, carefully selected stock including all kinds of household furniture for the parlor, bed room and kitchen from the fine class to the common makes, any contemplating purchaser will consult their own interests by dealing here.

P. L. BEEZER.

In this establishment our town can justly boast of having one of the best conducted meat markets in this or surrounding counties. The enterprising proprietors Messrs. P. Beezer have been established a number of years and have built up an extensive patronage. They conduct the market in a capable, enterprising manner and the public find great advantages in dealing there. They have always made it a point to handle nothing but the best and choicest meats of all kinds in season and the public receive here fair and upright treatment. The business has an appreciative patronage.

W. H. WILKINSON.

One of the most attractive and best appointed business establishments of our town, is the large and splendedly equipped china, crockery and queensware establishment of W. H. Wilkinson. This gentleman is one of our tony established business men. He has been carrying on business here for over 15 years and has always had a large and flourishing trade, The stock is purchased to an advantage from the best markets and his large and commodious store displays an immense line of fancy and decorated china and queensware, crockery, glassware etc., The business is much appreciated by the people for the high standard of excellence to which it is maintained and its capable upright management.

CHAS. H. LEVAN.

A successful, growing business of our town which deserves prominent mention is the popular merchant tailoring business carried on by the enterprising gentleman above named. It is now about two years and a half ago since Mr. LeVan, estabment here having bought out W. I. Fleming. Since coming under his management the business has gone ahead increasing its trade and growing in the confidence of the people. Mr. LeVans abilities as a cutter it is unnecessary for us to speak as his work well shows for itself. Suffice it to say that the finest class of merchant tailoring is done equal to what can be obtained in the large cities. We find here on hand to select a splendid stock of all the leading lines and novelties of tailoring cloths of imported domestic manufactures. The business has a large and appreciative patronage and deserves its success.

DR. A. W. HAFER.

In refering to the dental profession as represented in Bellefonte, we would make prominent mention of the gentleman above named who is known as one of the most successful dentists in this section of the state. Dr. Hafer, has been established here a number of years. He has always had a large and satisfactory practice and his professional abilities have won for him the confidence and appreciation of the people. Familiar with all branches of dentistry in its most improved methods and dental operations intrusted to him is performed in the most scientific manner. Dr. Hafer is one of our most esteemed citizens.

THE RACKET STORE.

One of the most popular and successful of our mercantile establishments is the magnificently equipped institution above named which deserves prominent mention in our review. The enterprising proprietors, Messrs. Spigelmyer & Bros., established here about five years ago. They have met with phenomenal success and built up an extensive trade which extends all over the surrounding counties. The store is kept abreast of the time. The success of the business is largely owing to competent buying. The proprietors always have the store crowded with bargins and the people have learned from experience that it saves money to deal here. The store is filled with a large and carefully selected stock which includes fancy and staple dry goods, notions, ladies and gents furnishings, house furuishing goods boots shoes and a variety of stock of which space will not permit any extended description. The business is in a flourishing condition.

JAMES HARRIS & CO.

This large and magnificently equipped hardware, stores tinware and agricultural implement emporium should occupy a prominent place in our review of the town. No name is better known in connection with the mercantile interests of our town than that of Harris & Co. This firm has been carrying on business here for over a quarter of a century. The establishment is in a flourishing condition and is in command of an extensive trade which reaches all over the section of the county. Messrs. Harris & Co. are enterprising, experienced, competent hardware, merchants they purchase their stock from the leading wholesale houses and direct from the manufacture and the public find great advantages in dealing at their store, an extenstive stock is carried including all kinds of general and shelf hardware tools and materials of all kinds, miscellaneous lines as paints, oils, glass, nails, wire, cutlery, farmers' supplies the best makes of stoves, all kinds of house furnishings in tin ware and copperware, Special attention is given to the job work and manufacturing department, the best work in roofing spouting etc., being done. The annual turn over of good is extensive.

A. J. CRUSE.

A popular and successful business of our town which deserves prominent mention in our review is that carried on by Mr. A. J. Cruse, manufacturer of and dealer in cigars, tobaccos etc. Mr. Cruse has been carrying on business here for a great many years. He has been successful and has built up a flourishing trade and conducted the business in a manner which has made it popular with its patrons and the public in general. Mr. Cruse has always made it a point to manufacture first class goods. His brands of cigars are among the best on the market, and he has a large wholesale trade. His retail department is stocked with all the choicest cigars, tobaccos, pipes and all kinds of smokers' sundries. Mr. Cruse is also agent for the celebrated Admiral cigarettes, not made by the trust.

S. H. WILLIAMS.

A question of importance to almost any one at this season of the year is that of house decorating, papering, painting etc. In this connection we wish to make prominent mention of the excellent business of the above named enterprising gentleman, who above all others is in the best position to do work and give satisfaction in this line. Mr. Williams has been established a great many years and he has the advantages of a thorough practical knowledge of the business. He employs competent assistants and any work intrusted to him is performed in the best manner. All kinds of house painting, papering, painting etc., is done. On hand is a large and varied stock of wall papers, borderings, decorations etc. Anyone contemplating work in this line will consult their own interests by calling on Mr. Williams.

JOSEPH BROS.

Ten towns of Pennsylvania of the population of Bellefonte can boast of a mercantile establishment that will compare with the one herein described. This large and magnificently equipped establishment has through the advantages it offers to the people excited a marked influence in drawing trade to the town, and raising the standard of our mercantile interests, Messrs Joseph Bros., rank among the leading merchants of this section of the state. They are merchants of experience and ability and conduct their establishment in touch with modern ideas of mercantile enterprise. The public find great advantages in dealing here. The high commercial standing and extensive acquaintance of tho firm on the wholesale markets, enable them to buy to an advantage. The commodious establishment is filled with an immense stock of goods. Every department of the mammoth establishment is replete with the newest, latest and best goods on the market. The store is admirably arranged for the convenience of patrons etc. Want of space will not permit of any adequate description, hence we will merely glance at the different departments which includes all kinds of staple and fancy dry goods, carpets and general house furnishings, lace curtains etc., boots and shoes, hats and caps, clothing etc. The annual turnover of goods is very large.

WILLIAM BRACHBILL.

In the purchase of household furniture our citizens and the people of the surrounding country have special advantages at the long established, well known and popular establishment of the enterprising gentleman above named. This we have no hesitation in saying is one of the best places to buy furniture in the county. Mr. Brachbill has the advantage of long successful experience and he thoroughly understands the business. He knows how and where to buy and a visit to his warerooms and an inspection of his stock will show that he can meet the wants of the people according to the taste and means of all from the fine class of furniture to the common makes, of all kinds for the parlor, dining room, bed room and kitchen. We note especially a beautiful display of children's carriages. It saves money to deal here.

DANIEL IRVIN & SON.

In referring to the Hardware establishments of the town we would make prominent mention of a new but energetic firm recently established in our midst. In Oc-

CURED!

Boston Specialist Baffled but the King of Blood Purifiers Wins!!

MANCHESTER, N. H.,
DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.,

Gentlemen:—With a feeling of deep gratitude in our THE hearts, we wish to add our testimonial to the large list of cures your GREAT MEDICINE has performed.

Some four years ago, our little daughter Hattie, then 7 years of age, began to show

SYMPTOMS OF SCROFULA.

The disease rapidly increased. We consulted one of KIND the best Physicians in the City, who began at once to treat her, but instead of abating the disease rapidly advanced. We became alarmed. Took her to Boston and placed her under the care of a famous Specialist, but in spite of his skill on different parts of her body. The fingers of her right hand THAT swelled to twice their natural size, superation around the nails caused three of them to drop off. We were in despair. Hearing DANA'S SARASAPARILLA recommended as a Great Blood Purifier, we, as a last resort, concluded to try it. At first it seemed to hurt her.

LARGE SORES FORMED

WE CAME NEAR GIVING IT UP.

We read the directions, reduced the dose to half a CURES teaspoonful. When she had taken three bottles, we saw improvement. She has now taken eight bottles and is perfectly well—cheeks rosy—spirits buoyant. And the only thing left to remind us of her terrible condition, is the absence of the three nails whose entire roots were destroyed.

Gratefully yours,
MR. & MRS. JAS. A. HARDY.

Bellefonte's Businesses.

tober last Messrs. Irvin & Son succeeded the late Robert McFarlane in the Hardware business and they have already established a reputation for enterprise and reliability in business which bids fair to insure them speedy success. The senior partner, Mr. Daniel Irvin, is also engaged in the mercantile business at Julian, this county, where he resides, the Bellefonte store being in charge of his son E. P. Irvin. Their store on High street, in the Crider building, is considered one of the finest in the town having a depth of 200 feet, but even with this space and a commodious cellar they are cramped for room and Mr. F. W. Crider will shortly begin the erection of a large warehouse to accommodate the growth of their business. In addition to a complete stock of all kinds this firm carries a large line of stoves and tinware, including a celebrated make of gasoline stoves. They are also prepared to do spouting and roofing of all kinds on short notice. We can assure our readers that in any dealings they may have with this firm they will receive fair and courteous treatment.

H. SCHREYER.

One of the establishments of our town which is noted for the high standard of excellence to which it has been raised is the large and splendidly equipped carpet, wall paper and housefurnishing establishments of the enterprising gentleman above named. Mr. Schreyer has been carrying on business here a number of years. He has met with phenomenal success and has built up a large and flourishing trade. The establishment is known as one of the best places to buy carpets etc. in central Pennsylvania. The public find every possible advantage in dealing here. Mr. Schreyer purchases his stock from the best markets and handles an extensive line of carpets, wall papers, lace curtains and general housefurnishings.

BOSCH & CO.

In referring to the meat markets of the town we wish to make prominent mention of the popular and successful market of Messrs. Bosch & Co., which is doing a large and increasing business. This is a first class meat market conducted in a capable, enterprising manner. Messrs. Bosch & Co. have been established about two years. They have built up a business which reflects credit upon their energy and ability. Here the public find the choicest and best meats of all kinds that can be obtained, and fair upright dealing. The business has a large and appreciative patronage and deserves its success.

JAKE GROSS.

We are pleased to note in our review of the business establishments of the town the success attending the popular merchant tailoring business of the gentleman above which is the newest established in its line in the town. Since commencing here a few months ago Mr. Gross has met with gratifying success and is already in possession of a good trade which is steadily increasing. Mr. Gross is an experienced first class cutter and any work which leaves his hands may be relied upon. He has an excellent stock to select from. It will pay any of our readers to give Mr. Gross a call.

E. L. POWERS.

A few words in our review in reference to the advantages to be had in dealing at the popular boot and shoe establishment of the above named enterprising gentleman will be of interest and profit to our readers. This business is one of our long established and reliable institutions and was founded by the father of the present proprietor over a quarter of a century ago. The store has always done a full share of the boot and shoe trade of the town, and is conducted in a capable, enterprising manner. Mr. Powers has a thorough knowledge of the boot and shoe trade and the wares of his patrons. He knows how and where to buy, and his store is filled with a large and first class stock embracing all the latest and best makes of boots and shoes, from the ladies finest French kid to the mens and boys' heavier wear. It saves money to deal here.

MISS M. GRAHAM.

In referring to the millinery stores of the town we wish to make special mention of the popular business successfully carried on by Miss M. Graham. Miss Graham has been established a number of years and she has always done a large and satisfactory trade and her store is much appreciated by its patrons for its capable, enterprising management. The ladies find great advantages in dealing here. Miss Graham is a competent buyer. She purchases her stock from the makers of fashion and for this spring and summers' trade her store displays a beautiful line of stylish and fashionable millinery, fancy goods, ladies and childrens' furnishings etc.

FRANK GREEN.

One of our long established, substantial and successful business men is the gentleman above named whose popular and first class drug establishment deserves prominent mention in our review. Mr. Green has been identified with the drug trade of the town over a quarter of a century. His business has always had the confidence and appreciation of the people for its capable management and the public have learned from experience that every advantage and protection is offered in dealing here. Mr. Green is a competent chemist and druggist and keeps the store to a high standard of excellence. He devotes careful attention to the purchase of his stock, buys from the most reliable wholesale houses and handles a full line of all kinds of drugs druggists' sundries, the leading patent medicines, etc. Special attention is given by Mr. Green to the dispensing department perscriptions being accurately and promptly compounded. The business has a large and appreciative patronage.

BRANT HOUSE.

In referring to the hotels of the town we wish to make prominent mention of the Brant House, Mr. H. C. Yeager proprietor. Mr. Yeager recently took hold of the house and he is making a success of it and building up a flourishing patronage. The house now offers excellent accommodations and is being conducted in first class manner. It has been refitted and remodeled throughout, the rooms papered and carpeted and everything is now in the best of shape being comfortably furnished throughout, Excellent tables are set. the bar is stocked with the choicest brands of liquors and cigars. We predict for Mr. Yeager a successful business.

MOTT'S MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS.

One industry which deserves prominent mention in our review is the first class marble and granite works of which the enterprising gentleman above named is the proprietor. Mr. Mott's has been successfully carrying on this industry for a number of years. He has built up a flourishing business which he conducts in a capable, enterprising manner. Enjoying the advantages of long practical experience. Mr. Mott's thoroughly understands the business. He is a competent experienced workman and anything which leaves his hands may be relied upon. He manufactures all kinds of monumental work and in style, color and finish his work is unsurpassed. Any contemplating purchaser will consult their own interests by calling on Mr. Mott.

C. McCLELLAN.

In this review we wish to call the special attention of our readers to the popular and reliable tailoring business for a great many years back, successfully carried on by Mr. McClellan. Any work entrusted to Mr. McClellan can be depended upon, as his experience and painstaking care always guarantees satisfaction. He is a first class cutter and can save you money by having clothing made by him, or if your clothes needs cleaning or repairing he is the man above all others to go to.

F. H. FRITTS.

We would next make special mention in our review of the business places of the town, of the popular and successful business carried on by the enterprising gentleman above named on Thomas street. Mr. Fritts has been established here about 2 year. Through enterprising, capable management he has built up a flourishing trade which is steadily increasing. His store is well equipped with a general line of merchandise as dry goods, furnishings, shoes, groceries etc. The store is noted for the substantial values it gives. Mr. Fritts keeps down expenses and sells at prices which are not discounted. He deals in the best makes of sewing machines.

BELLEFONTE FUEL & SUPPLY CO.

The Bellefonte Fuel & Supply Co. was established in October, 1889, under the management of Joseph L. Montgomery. They do an extensive wholesale and retail business in anthracite and bituminous coal. Also in hay, grain and feed. They are district agents for the Atlantic Refining Co., wholesale dealers in all kinds of oil. Their coal yards, warehouses and office are located where the old Snow Shoe coal formerly had their place of business. The future outlook for the firm is bright indeed.

BUSH HOUSE.

In speaking of Hotels our review would be very incomplete if we should neglect to mention the famous and well established Bush House which under the management of its present popular proprietor W. L. Daggett has continued to enjoy the confidence of the traveling public. This is one of the largest and best hotels in the town and has an ever increasing trade. Mr. Daggett is a man who pleases everybody. Everything here is first class and no one who stops at this place will go away dissatisfied; they have the best of rooms and set a table on which are all the delicacies of the season.

SECHLER & CO.

The firm of Sechler & Co., is the oldest grocery house in Bellefonte. It is now over twenty five years since Mr. Sechler embarked in this business and the wonderful success he has attained is proof of the business ability and foresight of the management. This firm in late years added to their already large business a meat department which like everything Mr. Sechler handles has also proven a grand success. Mr. Sechler is a careful thorough business man and has built up one of the most successful and best paying establishments in the town.

JOHN ANDERSON.

Among the Restaurants of the town the one kept by John Anderson on High street near the depot is the largest and most popular. Mr. Anderson has been in business for over twenty five years and has met with uninterrupted success. He furnishes meals at all hours; there is also attached in an adjoining room a billard parlor which is a popular resort for the young men and where everything is conducted in first class style, in this room tobacco and cigars are sold and many fruits in their season all through the season for that trade. Mr. Anderson sells the best oysters which are shipped from the seacoast daily. He is doing a large and prosperous business, He is also wholesale dealer in Beer, Porter and ale.

DR. J. C. McENTIRE.

Dr. McEntire has lately established himself in the town having moved here from Mill Hall where he was lately doing business and where he had a large practice and a host of friends but wishing to enter a broader field where his superior ability would be in greater demand and the circle of his usefulness broadened he determined to locate in the city of his nativity. His office may be found in the stone building opposite the Exchange on Allegheny street. In the short time he has been here he has built up a large practice which is constantly increasing. He is a gentleman of the old school of large experience, and is sure to make a mark among the skilled dentists of the town.

GARMAN HOUSE.

The old and reliable Garman House is well known all over this and adjoining counties where it has long been known as one of the most popular resorts for the traveling public. Daniel Garman made a fortune here and last spring retired from the business being succeeded by his sons Al. S. and C. M. Garman. These young men have fully sustained the great reputation of this popular hotel and have a large and ever increasing trade. They are popular young men and with their enterprise and close attention to business are following in the footsteps of their father on the road to fortune.

LYON & CO.

Lyon & Co. have been in business in this town for over twenty-five years and built up a large business. They carry an immense stock of dry goods, clothing, boots, shoes and notions. They have a large force of pleasant and agreeable clerks and sell goods at surprisingly low prices. Moyer Lyon, the manager and head of the firm, is a very agreeable gentleman. He is a sharp buyer, therefore can always sell at low prices.

E. K. RHOADS.

One of the most enterprising and successful young business men of Bellefonte is the gentleman above named whose flourishing business should occupy a prominent place in our review. Mr. Rhoads has been carrying on business here about four years during which time through his energy and ability he has built up an extensive business which is steadily increasing. He pays the highest market prices for all kinds of grain which he ships in large quantities to all parts of the country. He deals largely in coal, wood, bailed hay etc. Mr. Rhoads has the best of facilities for carrying on his business which is in a flourishing and prosperous condition.

S. A. McQUISTION.

S. A. McQuistion is one of the oldest carriage manufacturers in this county. His place of business is an Thomas street. He is one of the most skilled workmen in the town and commands a large trade. He is celebrated all over the county as a maker of fine work. He sells all kinds of carriages and wagons. He is a pleasant gentleman to deal with and will give all his customers the full value of their money.

THE EUREKA GROCERY

The Eureka Grocery has been doing business in this town for about five years and under the ownership of the present proprietor has met with flattering success. The business is managed by Earle C. Tuten assisted by able and gentlemanly assistants. Mr. Tuten is a young man of careful business training and is by his honest and square dealing building up a large and prosperous business. They carry a large stock and are constantly adding fresh goods. Two weeks ago they received a car load of groceries at one shipment. They sell at very reasonable prices. You can no doubt save money by dealing with this firm.

R. J. SCHAD & CO.

R. J. Schad & Co., whose place of business is on Lamb street at the Gas works, Plumbers and steam fitters, are doing a large business. They are young men of energy and push, and by close attention to their business have built up a large trade which is growing year by year. They do work for the rich and poor and their work can be found in some of the finest houses in town. They are pleasant gentlemen, and always work on the square.

McCALMONT & CO.

McCalmont & Co. are manufacturers of Lime and shippers of Limestone dealers in Coal, Coke, Kindling wood, Agricultural implements, farm wagons, carriages of all descriptions. Seeds, plaster, repairs for farm machinery, sewing machines, etc. They received this week a car load of binders twine. They buy everything in large quantities and therefore get the lowest rates. They are the largest dealers in these lines of manufactured material and goods in the county. They do an immense business and employ a large number of men skilled and unskilled. William Shortlidge, a man of years of experience, is manager of this large business, and the prosperity that has attended them is largely due to his sagacity and skill as a business manager.

J. T. ROUNDTREE.

John T. Roundtree has been in business on Water street for over four years. He is an energetic business man and has built up a large and prosperous trade. He keeps a full line of all kinds of groceries and can fill orders for anything in the grocery line. Every year he is adding to his constantly growing trade. He is a pleasant gentleman and has many friends.

BELLEFONTE COUNCIL MEETING.

The council met in regular session last Monday evening at eight o'clock. At the opening Dartt, Williams, Garman, Gerberich, Hillibish and Potter were present. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the clerk and approved. Miss Susan Dolan asked to be exonerated from taxes; referred to the finance committee.

Editor George R. Meek complained of the filthy condition of West High street from the railroad to Thomas street. He suggested the laying of a pipe from the gutter at Senator Meek's residence to connect with the sewer on the other side of the street which empties into the race. The matter was referred to the street committee with power to act.

Councilman Dartt, for the street committee, reported that the sewer in the alley near the Brockerhoff House stable had been cleared; also that the one in the alley near the gas works had been cleaned and repaired; also a sewer near Bunker Hill is being repaired. The street committee with the borough engineer made a tour of the town to see where repairs were needed on the streets and pavements. The report was in writing and was read by the clerk.

Complaint was made about the private sewer that runs down Lamb street to the creek. Where the bridge crosses the stream at that point there is not enough of water runs on that side to carry off the discharge from the sewer. It was decided that the owners should remedy this fault by turning the stream so as to carry more water on that side or some other effective way.

William Storm asked for premission to attach and enter the main sewer that runs down Lamb street, but for some reason his request was refused.

Councilman S. H. Williams, chairman of the water committee, again reported leaks all over town in the water pipes and that it is costing considerable money to repair them. The pipes in many places are thin and break easily. Back of the jail there is a leak that it costs considerable to keep closed.

The Borough solicitor, Clement Dale, Esq., was authorized to give notice to the proper parties that the new streets running from High to Linn streets must be opened to travel. These streets were open by the court some time ago but the work has not been done; the parties were given time to the 10th of June; if the streets are not open then the street commissioner is to do the work.

It was voted that the Hook & Ladder company building on Howard street be whitewashed. The Lock up on water street was reported to be in a bad condition and a new one was recommended. Councilman Gerberick, of the west ward, reported for the finance committee that they laid a tax of two mills for borough, three mills for street, and six mills for interest. Our Bellefonte readers can see by this what proportion of their taxes go to pay interest on their debt. Voted to put in a new street crossing near Gerberick & Hale's mill. John C. Miller turned up late and in his humorous way reported for the market committee that the Curb market was in a prosperous way and that he was getting all he wanted to eat, and that he would do all in his power to make the market a complete success. The following bills were read and approved, after which the council adjourned.

Cured of Scrofula

The People will have Hood's

Mr. Dorman's Experience

"My boy, now 9 years old, had Scrofula in one eye from the time he was a baby; discharging all the time. Of late we have been giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has done all that medicine can do. The Scrofula has disappeared, and his eye is healed up and well. I fully believe Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine in the market. I keep a general store, and it is not a trick to sell Hood's Sarsaparilla for the people will have it. I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other medicines together and the store would not be complete without it. My wife has also been entirely cured of Scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I am heartily thankful for what it has done for us." JOHN DORMAN, Shy Beaver, Pa.

JACK'S STRANGE LUCK.

He Went After the Gripsack of a Mysterious Friend.

It Obtained "Queer" Money—While He Was Being Put Under Arrest the Real Forger Succeeded in Escaping—Rewarded with Race "Tips."

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

"This ere's der way ter pickum," said "Windy" Jack, as he stepped away from the cashier's window and tucked a good-sized roll of bills into his waistcoat pocket.

"How do you do it?" asked a bystander who chanced to hear the remark.

"Oh, easy 'nuff," said Jack, as he bit off the end of a cigar the other handed him and adroitly struck a match on his boot heel. "I look 'round till I find er feller et knows er cow from er n'elevated railroad an' let him tell me. I've ben follerin' it up fer der las' t'ree mont's, 'n' 'f I ken hold on ter it fer er 'nudder t'ree I'll have er bank roll dat yer can't reach 'round wid er telegraph wire."

"Well, but that kind of information is not so easy to obtain."

"Now, dat's jest where yer coppered der queen fer er sure miss. Not so easy, is it? Well, I guess not, also. Say, Sport, 'f yer don't mind er little 'wet' inside, jest come 'round ter Sheehan's, an' I'll 'blow' der 'yarn' ter yer fer der fun er der ting."

Acting upon this suggestion the two were soon pleasantly seated at Sheehan's.

"Let er set right dere, Jimmie, 'til we gits tru," said Jack to the waiter, as he tucked a bill partially under a match safe that sat upon the table. "I don't reckon we'r goin' ter drown er five spot at dis school meetin', and when we gits tru der change is yourn, so keep er eye on der 'clinkers' an' let em come fast in der 'stretch.'

"Yer see, tings want lookin' well wit me at der time, an' when I says dat, yer knows what it means. It means dat I was skatin' along on der little edge er nothin', an' dat er n'air tight any kind er wedder, an' dead sure it ain't in der winter when yer breat' gits froze and drops in lumps on der sidewalk, is it? Not much, i' tain't.

"Well, dis was 'bout der way it was comin' ter me at der time. I didn't git more'n half er 'nuff ter eat, an' was carrin' der banner four er five nights in der week, an' when I did git er lodgin', it was allus betune er couple er tramps in er lousy down-town lodgin' house.

"Well, one night I was sittin' in er billiard room up town, jest waitin' fer der daylight an' hopin' dey wouldn't close der place fer er n'our er two, 'cause it was snowin' outside an' colder dan 'blue blazes,' an' I didn't have nothin' but jest er light summer suit on, an' me overcoat was in 'hock,' an' I didn't have nothin' inside er me, an' me head was dizzy an' me hands shook like I was 'bout fifty year old, an' dat was der reason I didn't win, when er feller come er long an' offered ter stake me in der open game for two bits er corner on der wan ball, but I couldn't make er shot, an' quit der game as blue as er half bred Chinaman's dog widout er photograph.

"Jest den er 'tout' dat we useter to call 'Consumption' come up and says: 'I jest seen yer brodder downstairs,' says he.

"'Want ter know 'f yer did,' says I. 'Dat's der first time I ever know'd I had wan. How's he lookin'?'

"'Sump'um like yerself,' says he; 'only a bit more respecterble, 'f I got on ter it straight. Take er look yerself; he's down dere at der bar.'

"I went an' looked over der railin' an' saw er man done up in er great big overcoat turnin' down er glass er whisky. He didn't look so much like me as he mi'nt, but dere was sump'n dat kinder reminded me er mesel' when I was feelin' good and der dough was comin' easy.'

"'How does he take yer?' says 'Consumption.' "Ain't it jest like lookin' inter er mirror?'

"'Not much it ain't,' says I. 'He got too much "feed" under his belt.'

"'Dat's all right; he hain't but jest left der farm,' says he. 'Wonder where he got dat hat, anyhow? Smells like cows, be gosh. Say, Jack,' says he, 'I'll lay yer ten ter wan his parents is still knittin' socks fer de soldiers. Der news dat der war is over hain't arrived up yonder yit.'

"Yer see, 'Consumption' tou't he had er merry wit, 'Consumption' did. No help fer cases like dat. He fell dead wan day, but I don't know if it was his wit or his cough dat killed him; anyhow, der book is closed an' he's off on der long race dat ain't got no finish.

"Well, I didn't pay much 'tention ter der 'bloke' but went over and set down, wonderin' which would start next, 'starvation' er 'freeze ter death,' an' dere want no limit ter der 'jag' er blues dat I had on ter me, when I felt some wan touch me on der shoulder, an' when I looked up dere stood der chap we'd ben talkin' er bout, askin' me ter play him er game er billiards.

"'Certing,' says I. 'Only der firm I'm workin' fer ain't payin' salariz did week, an' I'm waitin' fer er check from me mudder, an'—'

"'Dat's all right,' says he, smilin.' 'I'll settle fer der games.' (An I know'd by der way he spoke he want so darned green as he looked). 'I jest wants ter pass der time er way,' says he.

"'All right,' I says. 'I'll have ter go yer jest wan on dem conditions.'

"Well, we played fer quite er spell, an' it was er bout 'even up' betune the two of us. Den he put up his stick an' pulled out er ten dollar note. 'Go up an' settle fer der game while I puts on me coat,' says he.

"'All right,' I says, an' when I come back wit der change, 'yer can keep what dere is left of it, 'cause yer mi'nt need it,' says he.

"'Well, I didn't know jest exactly what ter mak er der 'bloke,' but as long as dere was any money into it I didn't care but er darn little, yer can bet on dat.

"Den we went 'round an' got some lunch, an' I s'rounded er purty considerable quantity er 'fodder' et his expense while he told me er 'yarn' er bout how he'd jest come from Chicargo an' hadn't never ben east afore, an' as't me wouldn't I show him der 'town der next evenin'.

"I said I would, an' he tole me where ter meet him. Den he took er 'sneak' and I had der first decent bed I'd had fer der las tree mont's.

"Der next evenin' I was on 'deck' at der time he'd set an' hung erround fer quite er spell, but he didn't show up an' I was jest erbout ter tro up der job when up he come runnin' like er 'stake hoss' an' says he: 'I'm sorry ter keep yer waitin',' he says, 'but er little matter er business detained me. Now I'd like ter have yer do me er favor 'f yer will.'

"'Sure,' says I. 'Name it, an' I'll do it wit pleasure.'

"'I'd like ter have yer go down ter dis place,' says he, handin' me er card, 'and git me 'grip' an' bring it up ter der —— house, an' I'll be dere when yer gits back. I'd go an' git it mesel', but I've got 'n appointment,' says he.

"'All right; I'll fetch it,' says I, an' started off; but I hadn't got but er step er two when he called me back, an', says he, 'yer might as well be comferterable. Jest take me overcoat; I hain't got fur ter go an' won't need it.'

"Well, I didn't like ter take his close, yer know, but he insisted, an' I tell yer what, it did feel good wit dose midwinter zephyrs dallyin' erround der way dey was dat night.

"While I was goin' down I was wonderin' how in thunder he come ter let er 'n 'outsider et he didn't know out loose wit his overcoat an' gripsack, but I set it down ter der fac' dat he come from Chicargo, an' let it go at dat.

"Der place where he sent me was er cigar store, an' when I as't fer der 'grip' der feller inside looked up kinder queer like an' wanted ter know 'how dey was runnin'.'

"'Slow,' says I, an' skipped out et er gallop fer up town; but I hadn't got but er rod er two when er feller laid his hand onter me sholder an' says: 'Look er here, me friend, I wants yer.'

"'No, yer don't; yer made er mistake. It's milk yer wants,' says I.

"'I shouldn't wonder 'f 'twas,' says he, an' afore I know'd what he was doin' he had er bracelet onter me rist, an' I tru' up de 'sponge' to onct, fer I know'd it want no use to 'kick' when he had der irons onter me.

"'Yer'll be sorry fer dis when yer gits sobered up,' says I ter der 'fly cop,' on der way ter der station house. 'Say, yer ain't wan er dem "jays" dat dey calls "Pinkertons," be yer? 'F yer be, yer ain't responsible fer nothin' yer do; none er dem cusses is, 'cept fer givin' er bad character.' Yer see I tou't he'd made er mistake, an' I was 'kiddin' him all der way down ter der station.'

"When I got dere der sargent went over me an' an' I give it ter him straight, but he didn't take no stock into it.

"Den er feller went tru me an' took possession er what's his name's 'grip,' an' I was er little su'prised when dey took er big roll er der 'long green' out er der insid' pocket er der coat dat I never know'd was dere.

"Den er 'copper' took me er round an' turned me loose into er pen, an' holy gee! Say, I've ben in some purty queer places, but I never struck anythin' dat could hold a candle ter der lik' er dat. Der was er howlin' gang er der cussedest lookin' 'bums' dat I ever run up erginst, an' dere want one in der whole 'outfit' dat er rattlesnake could er bit 'en er dark night widout bein' sick ter his stumak.

"I reckon dere's er good many tings dat I'd lik' ter hav' in der world dat I ain't li'ble ter git, but I'll give yer er straight 'pointer' I ain't lookin' fer no more er dat.

"Why, er square inch er der air in dat place would er supplied er whole operer company fer er year, 'f dey used any kind er judgment. No, sir, yer can bet yer sweet life I don't 'buck' up erginst dat kind er 'layout' no more.

"Der nex' mornin' I was up in der police court an' found out dat I'd ben took fer Jerry Fields, er notorious counterfeiter, an' wit der 'grip' an der overcoat an' der money it looked lik' I was 'booked' fer 'bout twenty year, but, lucky fer me, I'm sump'n of er polertitian be spells, an' wit der influence of der 'big guns' in der ward I got der court ter see it der way it was, an' got er way wit er reprimand an' er 'pointer' dat 'I better go an' git me teet filled.'

"Some time ater I got out dere was er letter come ter me from me friend Jerry tankin' me fer helpin' him ter git out er der city. He said dey was so hot ater him dat he wouldn't er had no show 'f I hadn't helped him.

"'Jest you keep quiet,' says he, 'an' yer won't loose nothin' by it.' Dere was er fifty dollar note into it. 'It's all right,' says he. 'An' yer needn't be erfraid ter use it,' But I kept it quiet till I was purty darned sure of it, I'll tell yer.

"After dis I begun ter git telegrams wit 'tips' an' dey is al'us signed 'Jerry.'

"Well, I don't know much erbout him, an' er darn sight less erbout his business, but he's got er pocket full of inside information from der race tracks dat lays way over the best 'tout' dat ever chawed terbacco, an' 'f dey keeps on comin' fer der nex' tree mont's der way deh has fer der las' tree, I'll back me own hosses afore der end er der season.

"Give us er couple er good cigars, Jimmie, an' don't fergit der five spot under der match safe."

MAIN'S SHOW.

Walter L. Main's show has come and gone. Come again! Two trains of sixty-foot cars brought the greatest circus now on the road into Atchinson Sunday morning. By night the tents were up, and people began to realize that there was more canvas spread than ever was before on the banks of White Clay creek and that the show must be a monster. The 300 people with the show were ladylike and gentlemanly. They looked neat and acted courteously toward those who visited the grounds to admire the hundreds of fine horses and to cast an occasional glance at an animal cage. Monday the country people began early to arrive in town and the town people kept on their Sunday clothes and all went to the circus. Shows with names like Barnum's attached are traveling on the reputation of men that are dead and gone. Mr. Main has his reputation to make in the west, and this trip is sure to merit the verdict that his show is now the best on the road. Their performance is clean and legitimate. There are no fakes, gambling or skin games on the outside, and the rough element supposed to be around a circus was conspicuous by its absence. The animals in the menagerie are in splendid condition. They look as if they were well treated and had plenty to eat. In the average traveling menagerie the animals look as if they had been on short rations all winter and too busy to eat while on the road. The sleek animals in this show are indeed a curiosity. The horses were well trained and handsome; the six trained Arabian stallions are rare beauties. The hippodrome races were genuine and exciting, especially the chariot races. An ordinary trotting race or country fair would be tame compared with the races under Main's tent. The ring performance was replete with the trained elephant, donkey and horse acts; with the artistic bare-back riders, tumblers, trapeze performers and other specialists.

We haye no hesitation in saying that it is, in every way, superior to any show seen in the west this season. It is really a marvel in one particular. It shows all it advertises. It drew the largest crowd ever seen under a tent in Atchinson and should it come this way next year must make room for ten thousand people.—Daily Champion, Kansas.

Will exhibit in Bellefonte Saturday, May 27th. Excursions on all railroads. Let everybody come and see the elephant.

AN OLD MAN WANDERS FROM HOME.

Daniel Hines, an old man now ninety years old who lives on the road from Bellefonte to Zion about four miles from town, wandered away from home one day last week. For some years past his son and relatives have been compelled to keep a sharp watch on him for the reason that he thinks he must go to work and starts off for this purpose, not returning until he is found and brought back. Last week his son John came to Bellefonte and left his father in charge of the housekeeper, a young lady by the name of Julia Gross. In the evening the old man started out and as he did not return soon Miss Gross went to find him. She could not find him on the premises and procured a lantern for a closer hunt. Still not finding him she started for a neighbor, James Curtin, who lives between their house and Bellefonte and on the way met John Hines, to whom she told that the old man had disappeared. A thorough search was made. Abandoned mines were looked into, the mountains searched; all night the hunt was kept up till about seven o'clock in the morning when he was found lying on the track of the Nittany Valley railroad at the point where the road runs through the farm of Cameron Burnside. He had left the house without shoes, coat or hat and when found his feet were bleeding and he was otherwise bruised. He was taken home and tenderly cared for.

There will be serious trouble if you don't overcome those dyspeptic symptoms. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine you need.

The armies of the civilized nations of the world number 3,000,000 men. Besides the loss of their time and labor, they cost at least $1,000 a year for each soldier, and that amounts to $3,000,000,000. If men were rational enough and ethical in proportion, the world could pay its debts very easily by simply disarming. As matters stand one-fourth of the working population of Christendom must labor to keep an army in idleness or in readiness to cut or shoot a neighbor. Evidently men are at best but half civilized.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

They Will Meet in General Assembly at Washington This Week.

Candidates for Moderator—How Six Hundred Commissioners Beneath a Historic Roof Will Settle Points of Doctrine—Twelve Days for Debate.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

The Presbyterian world will not be alone in observing the proceedings of "The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," which convenes in Washington, D. C., on Thursday, May 18. The six hundred delegates, or commissioners, chosen to represent their respective presbyteries, who will gather at the nation's capital in the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, are to pass upon the appeal in the famous Briggs case and to deal with twenty-eight overtures for revision of the confession of faith, besides transacting business connected with foreign missions and church polity. To say the delegates are mostly known as "Briggs" or "anti-Briggs" and that the question of revision is arousing infinite discussion will sum up the situation.

That the presiden of the United States and his entire cabinet (with one exception), the majority of the members of the supreme court, most of the state governors and a heavy percentage of congress and the legislatures are Presbyterian would suffice to make the gathering notable even were there no wealthy and intellectually and numerically powerful laity throughout the country supporting two hundred odd presbyteries with their arrays of churches, seminaries, pastors and professors. When to these elements of interest the excitement of doctrinaire partisanship is added, the presence and interest of "outsiders" and reporters in large numbers will be readily understood.

That the assembly will be overwhelmingly anti-Briggs all concede.

REV. THOS. C. HALL.

But whether the Briggs case will be sent back to the synod, or whether the assembly will itself take it up for adjudication, is left to conjecture. The usual procedure in appeals from the presbytery to synod and from synod to assembly having been departed from in this important controversy, the question to be determined is: "Shall precedent be returned to?" as one of the western delegates puts it.

As for Dr. Briggs himself, while he will appear before the assembly, his authority is nil. Many who voted for his acquittal repudiate his theories. As Dr. George L. Spinney, pastor of Phillips church in New York, said: "We vote to acquit Prof. Briggs, not because we consider him in the right, but to show our respect for freedom of opinion."

The conspicuous figure at the opening ceremonies will be the retiring moderator, Rev. William C. Young, D. D., of Kentucky. As the president of Center college at Danville, Ky., and through his attitude towards the Briggs alleged heresies and towards revision, he has attracted much attention. The opening sermon having been preached by Dr. Young, the question will arise as to his successor in the moderatorship.

Who will be the man?

That he shall be anti-Briggs goes without saying. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey, until a week or two since pastor of the Calvary church in Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. George D. Baker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, also in Philadelphia; Rev. William Henry Roberts, D. D., now the assembly's stated clerk, as well as professor in Lane theological seminary, and men of equal eminence have their respective adherents. In spite of the work accomplished by those who favor any one of these theologians, the honor may be conferred upon a polemical "Lochnivar out of the west."

Revision will take precedence of Briggs in the assembly's labors as a matter of course. The overtures have been, as a rule, either acted on already by the presbyteries or referred back by them to the higher body. As the colonistic and historical character of the confession is strictly preserved by the committee on revision, in accordance with the instructions given it, this whole subject is mainly important as a matter of ecclesiastical doctrine. Those radicals who look to the Briggs agitation to cover their attempts at diastic revision will meet a check should Dr. Willis G. Craig, of McCormick theological seminary, at Chicago, or the Philadelphia presbytery be heeded, as it appears they will be.

The delegates, it may be remarked parenthetically, are fresh from their constituencies. More than one-half were chosen on the very eve of the assembly's meeting. New York's presbytery, including some sixty-five churches, will be represented by seven ministers and seven elders. The leader of the free thought phalanx, Rev. Geo. L. Spining, is among them. Philadelphia, powerful as New York and perhaps more so, sends two candidates for moderator. St. Louis will return Dr. J. H. Brookes, famed as an advocate of conservative revision. Another celebrated westerner, Dr. Arthur J. Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Portland, Ore., is not yet forty, and enjoys the distinction of having great influence with the assembly, although not elected to it. He went to the Pacific coast four years ago from Chicago and his clerical love was imbibed at Lane seminary ir

REV. W. C. YOUNG, D. D.

Henry Preserved Smith's day. Dr. Brown is not an extremist in everything.

Dr. Herrick Johnson, who will also represent Chicago, is likewise non-committal regarding Briggs. A professor in McCormick theological seminary, he has given many coming churchmen's minds their first bent. In former years, when pastor of an Illinois church, he attracted attention by his sermons on Scriptural prophecy. His studies have made him an authority on Biblical literature.

It is expected that twelve days or less will be the duration of this gathering. The outcome is doubly interesting from its utter uncertainty. But that revision will respect tradition, and that Dr. Briggs and Presbyterianism will part on friendly terms or be considered together by the next local synod, seem reasonably probable outcomes. "Let us not anticipate the Lord," as one famous moderator said.

Preparations for the event are well under way. Rev. Dr. William A. Bartlett, pastor of the historic New York Avenue church, is chairman of the committee on arrangements, as well as of the executive committee. Mr. John B. Wight and Mr. John W. Thompson are secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the latter committee.

—W. F. Reynolds, is repairing a number of tenant houses which he owns on Willow bank street near the flourring mill of Jackson & Co.

—The Eureka Grocery store on High St. are daily receiving new supplies of goods to accomodate their increasing trade. They are able to fill all demands. Call and see them.

—You will save money and get first class goods by buying your groceries at the Eureka Grocery, next door to post office, Bellefonte, Pa. Try it, and see if this is not so.

—Two colored men were arreste last week for swearing on the street. Chief Burgess Meyer fined them one dollar each. There are some white men that should be taken for the same offence.

—When you have any doubt about it go to the Eureka grocery, High street, next door to the Post Office, Bellefonte. You will find everything in the grocery line and at very reasonable prices. Try them.

—Last Thursday night a large land slide occurred at the Lime quarries of A. G. Morris, on the road leading to Milesburg, an immense amount of dirt was found in the quarry in the morning. It will take a long time to clear it away.

—The United Brethren church at Houserville will be rededicated on Sunday, May 28th. It has been thoroughly repaired inside. J. W. Houser, of Pleasant Gap, did the work. The public are cordially invited to attend the rededication.

—Last Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, the funeral of Mrs. John Powell took place in Boggs township, Rev. Geo. Warren, of Milesburg officiating, The pall bearers were Nathaniel Bierly, C. K. Essington, George Taylor and John Sechler.

—It is rumored that Newton S. Bailey and Walter Crosthwait are about to start up the Centre county Times at Spring Mills. Both men are practical printers and Mr. Baily is an editor of years of experience. We wish them every success in their new venture.

—William Hendrixson, who formerly kept a grocery store out near the Valentine furnace, visited his wifes parents last week. He has gone into the insurance business and is agent for the Pheonix Life Insurance Co., of Hartford Conn. His headquarters are at Williamsport.

—Mr. F. H. Thomas, is the superintendent of the Bellefonte Central railroad, he takes the place of Thomas Shoemaker who resigned to give his whole attention to the furnace business. Mr. Thomas is a railroad man of experience having been in the employ of the Reading, as manager for several years.

—Last Wednesday at half past eight o'clock in the evening, at the home of the bride's parents at Blanchard, this county, Mr. C. F. Gladfelter, of Blanchard, was united in marriage to Miss Lillie Lingle, of Beech Creek. Miss Bessie Lingle acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Charles Gladfelter as groomsman. After the ceremony the young people took the train for Emporium, which place they will make their future home.

—The cemetery at Zion is said to be in a very bad condition on account of neglect. Those interested in the place are requested to gather there on Tuesday, May 23, to clean and fix it up. Some of the graves are sunken, tomb stones are leaning and will soon fall if not attended to. It is hoped that every one having friends there or any others interested will be there on that day and assist in putting the place in good condition.

—The chain works operated by Frank McCoy and company, at Milesburg, have lately doubled the capacity of their works and will start twenty new fires, which will give employment to 44 new skilled workmen and ten helpers. They have orders, it is said, for six months ahead. This firm makes and manufactures their own iron, an example which we should like to see other manufactures follow, and we believe might be followed with profit.

—Gregg Post No 95 G. A. R. of Bellefonte, appointed a committee consisting of James H. Rankin, Gen. J. I. Curtin and William Fitzgerald to procure an orator for the post on Decoration day. The committee obtained the services of John G. Love, a member of the post and one of the most eloquent speakers in the state, a better selection could not have been made. Mr. Love will be a drawing attraction and will entertain his audience on that day as few men can.

—Last Wednesday at 12 o'clock noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Musser, at Aaronsburg, this county, Mr. Mertas E. Edward was united in marriage to Miss Mary S. Musser. The ceremoney was performed by Rev. W. H. Schock, of New Berlin, Pa., an uncle of the bride. The bridesmaid was Miss Catharine Musser, a sister of the bride, and Mr. A. G. Nesbit acted as groomsman. A large number of relatives and friends were present to witness the happy ceremony and bid the young people a prosperous voyage in life's tumultuous sea.

ONE FOUND AT LAST.

We have given an account in the Republican of an accident at Lock Haven over three weeks ago in which, by the overturning of a scow, three men lost their lives. Every effort to recover the bodies had proved unsuccessful, until last Friday when one of the bodies was found floating in the river an account of which we clip from The Lock Haven Democrat:

The body of Thomas Reed, better known as "Bud" Reed, who was one of the three men who were drowned three weeks ago last Thursday morning about a mile below where the steam scow capsized.

FINDING THE BODY.

Friday morning James Sexton, of Susquehanna avenue, while standing on the logs in the boom about one fourth of a mile above the Normal school, saw an object floating out in the river. Procuring a pole and jumping on a log, he poled his way out to the object and saw that it was the body of a man. He informed Owen McMann and Daniel Winslow, two men employed on the boom, of his discovery, who told him to go to shore and get a boat. He did so and with Orville Smith and Daniel Wilson, who claims that he saw the body first, rowed out to the body and towed it to the shore. The steam scow was passing at the time and Mack Boyle the wheelman, who was on the scow when it overturned, three weeks ago, was requested to come and identify the body. As it was face downward he was unable to recognize it by the features, but, judging by the clothes, identified the remains as those of "Bud" Reed.

HIS FATHER APPEARS.

Word was immediately sent to Mr. Reed, the father of the unfortunate man, who with Undertaker Sloan, appeared on the scene about an hour afterwards. When he arrived there the body was lying in the water among the logs. It was clothed with shirt, pantaloons and shoes. The hat was gone. On the right hand was a buckskin mitten, while the left was ungloved. A cloth has been procured and covered the head. The father examined the clothing and said that it was the body of his son. Mr. Reed and Mr. McGill then jumped in a boat and towed the body down the river to the wharf of the Queen's Run fire brick company, from which place it was taken to Undertaker Sloan's room.

POSITION OF THE BODY.

From the position of the body it looked as though young Reed was still swimming, but had become exhausted and sank to the bottom As said before, he was lying face downward, his arms hung along the body, while his legs were drawn up as though he was just in the act of making a stroke. It is supposed that the the body had been under the logs for several days and this morning a large opening was made in the pieces of timber piled up by floating a number down the stream. Shortly after the body was seen floating on the surface of the water.

CONDITION OF THE BODY.

In preparing the body for burial it was found to be very much swollen, and it was with difficulty that the clothes were taken off. The face was discolored and features distorted. His pocket book containing money was found on his clothes and given to his father. The funeral took place this morning at 10 o'clock.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION AT BELLEFONTE.

We have been requested to publish the following notice: In pursuance of the Presidential order of January 5, extending the civil service law to all free delivery postoffices, the civil service commission at Washington has ordered that an examination be held in Bellefonte on Saturday, June 24, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., for the grades of clerks and carriers in the Bellefonte office. Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations are as follows: Clerk, not under 18 years; carrier not under 11 nor over 40; messenger, stamper, etc., not under 16, nor over 45. No application will be accepted for this examination, unless filed with the undersigned on the proper blank, before 12 o'clock, noon, on Tuesday, June 20. The examinations are open to all reputable citizens, who may desire to enter the postal service, without regard to their political affiliations. All such citizens, whether Democrats or Republicans, or neither are invited to apply. They shall be examined, granted, and certified, with entire impartiality and wholly without regard to their political views, or to any consideration save their efficiency, as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions, and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, apply at the postoffice to

G. W. Rees.
Secretary Board of Examiners.

The age limitation is entirely removed in case the applicant is a soldier or a sailor, honorably discharged.

THE MEN AT WORK.

It has been said that there are a thousand men at work on the new railroad from Bellefonte to Mill Hall, viz: "The Central Railroad of Penna." One large force is at work at what is called the Junction about one mile east of James B. Curtin's place, under the charge of L. T. Munson. This force will work both ways, towards and away from Bellefonte. The other started at Mill Hall under the charge of J. I. Higbee, and is working this way. This is in accordance with what we said last week. The work has commenced and commenced in easnest. Any person or persons who have railroad ties that they would like to sell should refer to ad. in our columns headed, "Sixty thousand ties wanted."

MAIN'S BIG SHOW.

The Biggest and Best Show That Ever Vsited Superior Was Here Yesterday.

Walter L. Main's big show pitched its immense canvas in Superior yesterday and gave the best circus that was ever witnessed within the limits of the town. It seemed to be the pride of the managers to give everything just as they had advertised it, and the result was the most satisfied crowd that has ever attended an entertainment of this sort here.

Their punctuality, too, was remarkable. At precisely 10:10 the parade formed. At precisely 2 the show commenced; 4 to the minute it dismissed, and at promptly quarter to eight the evening show opened.

The prade, like the rest of the show, far surpassed anything that has ever before been given here.

The afternoon attendance must have been in the neighborhood of 5000 people, as even the standing room was occupied.

Most of the acts were new, and their tight and slack rope performances, tumbling, etc., were especially good. The whole thing went off with only one slight accident to one of the trapeze artists in making an aerial leap.—Superior Daily Journal, Neb. Will give two exhibitions in Bellefonte on Saturday, May 27. Come and see it.

HAVE FINISHED THEIR WORK IN THIS COUNTY.

The Wrought Iron Range Co. of St. Louis, Mo., have for the past two months had their agents in Centre County selling their Home Comfort Range, an advertisement of which has appeared in the Republican for the last two months. Their business here has been under the management of Superintendent T. A. Brashear assisted by an able corps of salesmen, viz: S. McCart, H. S. Spencer, H. W. Robinson, John Palmer, C. E. Bracken, F. M. Guy, John F. Clossner, W. P. Rodwell and Will Curtis. These gentlemen have sold three car loads of these ranges in this county. They have conducted a square business and sold an article that cannot fail to give general satisfaction and should they return to the county again in the future will do a larger business than they have done this time. While we are ever ready to expose men who travel over the country to impose worthless product upon the people, it gives us pleasure to speak a word of praise for men who come among us to sell us a thing of real value as these men have done. They finish up their business here next Monday. The house that puts out these goods is located at St. Louis; they employ on the road, all over the country, three hundred salesmen. They have 1500 hands employed in their works and are doing an immense business. Their expenses are over $7,000 a day.

BITTEN BY A SNAKE.

Last week Wednesday, while picking stone on his brother's farm at Julian, this county, Felix Drummel, a young Frenchman who has been in this country but a few months, lifted up a stone under which was a copperhead snake. The viper jumped at him, biting him in the hand. He told his brother, who started with him immediately to Dr. W. V. Irvin, of Julian. When he arrived at the doctors he had become quite crazy from the effects of the poison. It took several men to prevent him from doing himself persnoal injury. After the Dr. had done what he could to alleviate his sufferings he was taken home. At home he acted in a very vioient manner. We have since learned that his recovery is almost certain.

Edward Drummel, the brother, is well known in Bellefonte. He at one time worked at the harness makers trade for James Schofield, our present member of the State Legislature, afterwards he was secretary of the Y. M. C. A., until that organization had to dispense with his services for want of funds to pay him. He then bought a farm at Julian and last fall went to his home in France to look after his property interests there. When he returned he brought his brother Felix with him. The young man has had a narrow escape from death and passed through an experience he will not soon forget.

LOST HIS CASE.

It seems that the Supreme Court has decided against Treasurer James J. Gramley in his suit to recover commissions on money taken in by Treasurer Goss and paid out by Gramley. The Supreme court in its opinion says:

"As to the item of $71 83 commissions of one per cent. on the $7183 32 State tax or personal property for the year 1890 paid the Commonwealth, the court was clearly right in holding that he was not entitled thereto. The sum on which the commission was claimed was a past debt due by the county to the Commonwealth, and in paying that debt with the county funds, defendant was serving his employer, and of course his services were fully compensated by his salary.

"The questions presented by the several assignments of error, together with the rulings of the learned Judge thereon, and his reason for directing a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $5 321 30, and afterwards entering Judgment thereon for that sum, sufficiently appear in his charge. Further comment is unnecessary."

A RAILROAD WAR AT PHILIPSBURG.

We quote from the Philipsburg Ledger the following account of an Electric railroad war at that place:

"The war between the rival electric railways. viz: the Philipsburg and Houtzdale Passenger railway, represented by Messrs. Thomas Collins, William E. Wallace, W. R. Hartshorn and W. Norris of the one part, and the Philipsburg Electric Railway company represented by Messrs. Duncan, Irwin, McGaffey, Barnes, Potter, et. al., of the other part, remains in statu quo, although Mr. Collins and the directors of the Philipsburg Electric Railway company had a very lengthy and harmonious conference yesterday, and it is very probable that after the usual amount of skirmishing indulged in in such cases the rivals will bury the hatchet and combine, which will be a very sensible and staisfactory thing to do.

The only barrier is the location of the power house which by the wording of the charter of the Philipsburg and Houtzdale company must be located at Osceola, while the Philipsburgers demand that it be located in Philipsburg or Chester Hill, or they won't combine. The matter can be adjusted by the consent of the deputy secretary of the commonwealth and no one else.

In the matter of protest against granting a charter to the Philipsburg Electric Railway company, filed by Messrs. Wallace, Hartshorn and Attorney McAteer, representing the Philipsburg and Houtzdale Passenger company, the deputy secretary has set May 24 as the day for hearing the argument, and has cited the representatives of both companies to appear before him at that time for argument.

In our last issue we stated on what we considered good authority that Mr. J. N. Casanova had purchased Senator John J. Patterson's stock in the Philipsburg and Houtzdale Passenger Railway company. We are informed by Mr. Casanova that this is a mistake. Mr. Thomas Collins was the purchaser, and Mr. Casanova says he has no interest in the matter whatever, beyond the interest and advancement of Philipsburg.

The engineers of the Philipsburg and Houtzdale company have been busy locating the line of their proposed route in the borough and have driven their stakes all over town. The borough officials withdrew their opposition to the surveying, but will fall down on the Philipsburg and Houtzdale company pretty heavy if they attempt to tear up any dirt, unless by consent of the Philipsburg Electric company, who now hold the right of way."

PENNSYLVANIA BALLOT REFORM ASSOCIATION.

We have received the following circular which we think explains itself. We submit it to the consideration of our readers:

To the Newspaper Press of Pennsylvania.

The majority of the Senate voted on May 3rd to change, in three most material points, Senator Baker's bill to improve the present ballot law, and the bill, so changed, was passed by the Senate the next day. Each of the changes would injure the law. They are:—

1. To allow a voter to vote a complete party ticket by making a single cross. This (as the California Supreme Court has declared) would be unconstitutional because it compels those voters, often the majority, who do not wish to vote their party ticket without exception, to vote with more trouble and difficulty than others, where as the constitution requires that all should be on an equality. Besides this, experience both here and elsewhere shows that the only way to avoid mistakes is marking the name of each candidate voted for.

2. To allow any voter to be "helped" in making his ballot, by any other voter. This, by rendering secrecy permissive only, instead of compulsory, would destroy the only object of the Australian system, and make the law costly mockery.

3. To allow the judge to count the ballots, instead of the inspectors. This would remove a long established safe-guard of our elections. That the counting should be done by two men, and they of opposite parties, is self-evident.

No one imagines that the Republican party, to which the majority of the Senate claim to belong, desire these changes. No one imagines that the People at large, the members of all political parties, desire them. On the contray it is perfectly well known that the People are practically a unit in desiring one uniform system of marking ballots, the greatest possible secrecy in voting, and every safe-guard for an honest count.

If the bill is passed with the above obnoxious features. the Governor will be forced to veto it, and the many improvements proposed in the bill in the way of convenience and economy will be lost. It is not too late, however, to compel the substitution of the provision of the original bill, or at least those of the present law. This is the most possible because the House has passed a bill requiring each candidate's name to be marked. Two years ago the law was wrung from a hostile Senate by the people. The Press then acted as the voice of the People, and was a potent instrument in securing victory. The Press is even more united in support of the secret ballot now than then. We ask all the newspapers of this State to contiue to demand that the House pass the Baker bill without the Senate's changes, and that the Senate undo its work; and we wish them to encourage all citizens to make their opinion known to each member of the Senate and House by letter or personal interviews, until the People's battle is won.

John P. Harris and family left last Friday for Clearfield, to visit among friends.

Olie Meek, from Washington, D. C., is visiting his brother, Senator P. Gray Meek, of this place.

Mrs. John Bullock and daughter have gone to Mechanicsburg to spend part of summer with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nichol are visiting in Bellefonte. Mr. Nichol was years ago the manager of Berwick, White & Co., at Snow Shoe, and about that time married Miss Clara Lyon, daughter of S. S. Lyon, on Curtin street. The firm afterwards sold out their interests in the Snow Shoe mines and Mr. Nichol went to Philadelphia, where he was still employed by the company. His duties required him to travel all over the county. He has lately returned from Paris, where he and his wife have been for some time past. He is a live business man and always busy.

Ex-Commissioner John C. Henderson has been very ill at his home at Julian, mention of which was made in the Republican of two weeks ago. Since then he has been in a very critical condition. He was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism; he grew so bad that Drs. P. S. Fisher, of Zion, and Thos. Tobin, of Stormstown, were called to consult with Dr. Swoope, the attending physician. For a time his his life was despaired of; the children at a distance were summoned home; at last a change for the better came bringing with it a great relief to his many relatives, friends and neighbors. He is now out of danger and his speedy restoration to health is expected which is glad news to his many friends.

The Tyrone Herald gives this information about A. E. Clemson, an old subscribor to the Republican. The Herald says: At his home in Baileyville, Centre county Tuesday was celebrated the seventieth birthday anniversary of A. E. Clemson, made pleasant by a reunion of all his children: Mr. and Mrs. D M Clemson of Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. C C Clemson, of Tyrone; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan L Dale and daughter, of Pleasant Gap, and Mr. and Mrs. F H Clemson and son, of Scotia, all being present. Mr. Clemson was the recipient of several valuable presents as mementoes of this, his three-score-year and ten birthday anniversary. The day was pleasantly spent by the reunited family and will be ever green in their memory. The children all returned to their respective homes upon the evening of the same day.

—John C. Miller, owns a lot of land on East Linn street and lately he purchased from W. F. Reynolds the house now occupied by Dr. T. R. Hays which he is to have torn down and out of the material will erect a house on his lot above mentioned. The contract for tearing down the building has been awarded to Robert Miller, our present very efficient overseer of the poor. He will commence the work of removing the building immediately after the first of June. Dr. T. R. Hayes who know occupies the house, will move into the house now occupied by George Valentine which he has purchased. We understand that Mr. Walentine will move with his family to Philadelphia.

—Capt. S. H. Williams, the celebrated house and sign painter of Bellefonte, has prepared for the State College two beautiful signs which will be placed over their exhibit at the World's Fair. The signs are thus described. "The design is that of a keystone. On the up part of the sign are the College colors put on with white and blue sand. The back ground of the corner part of the sign is covered with black sand. The word. "State College Exhibits" are inlaid with gold." They are both alike. A price of fine work highly creditable to the artists and the house that turned them out.

—Last Friday a little daughter of C. M. Garman was on the veranda of the Garman house and in some way looking over the railing lost her balance and fell over. In some way her feet caught, which prevented her falling to the pavement below, a distance of thirty feet. Her cries attracted the attention of some gentlemen who hastened to her assistance. It was a narrow escape from a very dangerous fall.

A WRITE UP OF THE BUSINESS HOUSES.

We give this week a lengthy notice of the business houses of Bellefonte. Of course these mentioned are not all there is, but it is all that had enterprise enough to pay the small sum asked by the men who worked this scheme up, unless by accident they may have been over looked. Same we recommend to our friends throughout the county that when they want to buy they will find among the men represented here the best and most enterprising men in the town. The men who are alive and with whom they can deal on as liberal terms as they can get in this or any other town in the state. All branches are represented here and as far as we know, they are all safe and gentlemanly men to do business with. We recommend them one and all to your kind consideration.

—H. C. Weaver, Bellefonte's Insurance agent for Mntual Life Insurance Co. of New York, has just returned with his wife from a visit among friends in Philadelphia. While there he called upon R. M. Magee, who is an old Bellefonter. Mr. Magee is always glad to see friends from his old home and insist upon giving them a royal reception.

—Miss Bertha LeJeal of Erie, Pa., accompanied her father, J. J. LeJeal, the famous piano tuner, to Bellefonte on Monday evening, and will spend a fortnight visiting at the home of Mrs. Gross in this place. Miss Bertha is a lively, vivacious young lady, and always enjoys her visits to this place.

—The ladies of the Lutheran congregation of Bellefonte have taken upon themselves the task of raising the money required to complete their new church corner of Linn and Allegheny streets. The church is slowly approaching completion the workmen are now plastering it.
